SUSPENDED TRIO TO HAIL THEIR INNING

Eberstein Asks What the H---- and Ringer Supports Mayor

POLICE FORCE SLATED FOR SOLDIERS

Some Comical Sides of Charges Brought by Iowa Farmer Who Claims He was Kangarooed Out of $15 When Caught With Bottle of "Liquid Veneer."

Dean Ringer, superintendent, and Marshal Eberstein, chief of police, so-called, are both back to the city, after spending a few weeks vacationing on foreign soils. These over-worked gentlemen were given vacations on pay and are now back to enter the political battle that became more heated during their absence from the city. Like a number of other Omaha policemen, Ringer and Eberstein are under fire and both will have an opportunity of resigning before being given the can by the people themselves. Eberstein wanted to know "what the hell has been going on while I was away," and Ringer said Mayof Smith did the proper thing when he stopped the collections. Detectives Dolan, Hagerman and Lundeen were charged with taking up from an Iowa farmer caught with a bottle of "poontang," and the alleged willingness of the farmer to part with $15 to a "kangaroo court" rather than go to jail. According to the charges Dolan, Hagerman and Lundeen composed the court and took the $15 from this Iowa farmer as a "fine," which they divided among themselves, each presumably receiving $5.

The general public will doubtless take these charges with a grain of salt. All three of these detectives are old men on the force and their records have been pretty clear. Old police officers say these charges are right in line with what has been going on right along, and that whatever may be charged against men like Dolan, Hagerman and Lundeen, that nobody has ever believed they would lower themselves to this sort of petty larceny.

Ringer says the mayor did the very proper thing in suspending these men. Andy Patullo, who has been chief in everything but name, was called upon by the mayor to take action and is said to have made an investigation of the affair. It is also stated the farmer has agreed to come to Omaha to appear before the city commissioners and substantiate his former statement.

As a matter of truth it is said this old codger has stirred up a pretty fine mess. Even if all he has told is true, he will do well to keep out of the hands of the law before he gets a real jolt. He is said to have admitted that he was caught with a bottle of liquor and that in order to keep out of jail he paid the men who stopped him $15 in real money. If his own admissions are true, he is really the guilty one of the bunch and will probably find himself in jail before he gets through with his work if he comes back to Omaha to appear against the accused officers.

CLASSY OMAHA RESORTS RAIDED WHEN MEDIATOR SUGGESTS ACTION

Hanscom Park Joint Visited by Raiders and Mrs. Wilson's Party Broken Up.—Minna Lusa Popular Part of City for Joints.—Sheriff Also Busy.

Taking the advice of The Mediator, raiding squads have been going after some of the "higher ups" who have been conducting bawdy houses and making the night hideous in some of the better residence sections of the city. Mrs. G. E. Wilson's entertainment resort at 1339 Park avenue, within a stone's throw of the entrance to Hanscom park, was recently taken in by the raiders. Mrs. Wilson and half of score of "innates" being hauled down to the station in the police cars.

"Mrs. Wilson" is a new name to some of her neighbors, but the wise boys have known her for a long time. In fact she has had a "reputation" for so long that those who heard of her place being taken were not surprised at the news. But she apparently did not worry much and so far as known her home is not for sale or rent, except to transients, as has been the custom in the past.

Out in the country, where neighbors are presumed to get along together without neighborhood rows, there has been considerable disturbance. J. T. Murphy, as he gave his name, was pinched at his home, five miles west of the city limits, on the Dodge road. It is charged he was operating a "road house," whatever that is. The sheriff also made calls on some of the West Center places and one of them is still under surveillance, it is said.

The "chicken dinner" business has become popular in many parts of the county and these places are made headquarters for some pretty big "parties." As a usual side issue parties take their own moonshine along, which fact has made it pretty tough on the proprietors of the places, who are blamed for debauches for which they are in no wise responsible. In one of these places recently a big fight occurred, in which one fellow was badly beat up. It was later discovered that the rowdies had carried a goodly supply of booze with them and all got drunk while having dinner at the place.

Sheriff Clark is keeping a pretty good eye on things and says he will not stand for any rough stuff. He taken steps to keep in touch with country places and says he will insist on them being run accordingly to law or be closed up.

Out on Omaha's "Prettiest Mile" and further north in that new addition to the city known as Minna Lusa some prosperous joints have got into action and some of the residents in the vicinity of the Prettiest Mile club have begun to dub that section "Lousy Minna." Half a dozen former residents of what was known as Omaha's "red light" district have purchased property in that vicinity and find it a convenient part of the city in which to operate along the old lines and to dispense moonshine whisky. That section is almost absolutely without police protection.

OMAHA POST SAYS WILL AIR STORY NEAR FUTURE

The Omaha Post, successor to Public Sentiment, mushroom newspaper, says it will soon tell a big story about George Roberts, well known Omaha grain dealer. Just what the story is, which the Post says has been hushed up by Omaha daily papers, is not known, but it is a safe bet the Post never publishes it. The "story" came to a sad end when it was learned that any newspaper that touched it might find itself in a peck of trouble with criminal libels. Several well known printing firms refused to let the story on their presses because they feared being made parties to big damage suits. Other papers have shown good judgment in suppressing the whole thing.

THOMAS FLYNN'S PAPER IS NOT REACHING HIM

Tom Flynn, who died a few short weeks ago, had been a Mediator subscriber ever since the first issue was published fifteen years ago. But Uncle Sam's mails do not reach Heaven, for which reason he can no longer read the paper. A silent reminder of this fact reached this office this week in the shape of a letter from a member of the Flynn family asking that the subscription be discontinued.

It is these little things that make the editor sit up and take notice. Flynn was the sort of fellow that can be remembered for a long time after he is gone and it is not pleasant to recall that he is gone. He was a real friend of the editor of The Mediator. Just the same as he was to everybody who had the good fortune to enjoy his confidence or even his acquaintance.

APOLOGY TO READERS.

The Mediator comes out a day late this week because the editor has been under a doctor's care the last three days. He is all right again, however, and expects to be back regularly on the job from this time on. Incidentally, we also have an apology for a slackening up in the news columns for the same reason. Some of our subscribers have been reading The Mediator fifteen years, and this is the first apology they have heard for the paper appearing a day late. THE EDITOR.

Doings In Omaha Fifty Years Ago

"Froggie" Howard, well known around the Paxton hotel lobby for half a century, was basking in the sunshine of outside villages, where a supply of high-grade poontang was to be had. Dallas, S. D. was on his calling list.

B. A. Sealey, "a reader," was a great newspaper correspondent in his time and even threatened to become a regular subscriber.

Frank Hoag threatened to have his hair dyed red. Frank was a great automobile driver in his time.

Chris Christensen, well known deputy sheriff, looked over things in the country. He left Jimmy Lindsay to protect one of our great country chicken farms.

Julius S. Cooley, leading member of the Omaha bar (police court department) was kept busy several days defending himself and his clients. The judge sure had troubles of his own.

E. Moran, well known harness bull, was having much trouble keeping chicken thieves away from his Sprague street farm. Mrs. Moran's work raising a crop of chickens almost came to naught.

Frank Murphy, who once operated Ak-Sar-Ben field for two weeks, was not saying much but doing a lot of thinking. And he had something to think about, at that.

Mat Brown, who formerly owned most of Columbus, Neb., gave up the grain business and went to Fullerton. Brown and Mr. Olsen, once an Omaha ornament, were not on speaking terms.

Johnny Housner, former dealer in Ford cars, was again sticking around his old haunts. Johnny complained bitterly about business.

Four new pictures of movie stars were hung in the parlor of the "Four Roses," one of our well known and highly recommended cafes.

George Green, Kenosha horn star, promised to write his friends but none of them reported having heard from him.

With the opening of the Brandeis theater for business, the Jacobs end of the Jacobs & Lee drug store reported an increase in business. His only handicap was a lot of talk he had to contend with when the Brandeis doorkeeper showed up. Ralph was still putting out the old line.

Butch Ames moved his headquarters further north on Sherman avenue.

AEROPLANE BOOZE IS OUR LATEST REPORT

Even Federal Authorities Have Begun to Investigate Air Drivers

"CANADIAN CLUB" RETAILING AT 75C

Investigation Shows Story Is Myth and Got Up by Dispensers in Order to Secure Fancy Prices for Ordinary Home Distilled Output.

Intense interest centers in state-ments heard these days that Canadian whisky is coming to Omaha by aeroplane, and that the business of thus transporting liquor has been made regular employment. If this statement is true it puts Omaha on the map nearly as much as did the statement of Governor Cox that Omaha business men had been asked to contribute $50,000 to the republican campaign fund.

The booze reports have become so persistent that even federal officers including Enforcement Officers Hanley and Wallie Wilson, have broke into print over the affair and express themselves on the belief that aeroplanes are making regular trips and that the business is financed by a north end druggist.

These reports have resulted in much grief for some of the poor devils who have been laying down 75c per drink for what they presumed was real "Canadian Club" whisky, and one North Sixteenth street dispenser has been able to reap a lot of golden shekels through his reckless 75c system. As a matter of fact there are no aeroplanes bringing booze to town as a commercial proposition. The story is a good one, just the same. It has been current for several weeks and some of the enterprising poontang merchants have taken advantage of the opportunity to become millionaires. These fellows get a few gallons of the ordinary moonshine whisky that is now so plentiful and give it out that they have just received a stock of Canadian Club booze. They peddle it for 75c per small drink, and most of the fellows who have laid down their money just "fell" for it without making any kick at all.

The time has passed when the casual absorber of intoxicants asks any questions about what he is absorbing. He feels that he is in luck if he gets any at all at any old price. Of course there is plenty of moonshine on tap. The art of making whisky is really no art at all and it is surprising how many of our young and ambitious fellows have gone into the business. The business has become so popular that many grocery stores are peddling it more freely than they peddle some of the staple groceries in their stores. One grocer, near Twenty-ninth and Leavenworth, owned and operated by one of our Jewish friends, gives the booze business more attention than he gives to his grocery business. He has been handling a pretty good brand of moonshine, too, and puts it up at $5 the pint.

This Leavenworth street grocer has become popular and his customers include some of the elite population of the Hanscom park district. He is on the job early and late and is very popular with those who feel the necessity of taking on a few in the evening or as morning appetizers. This grocer, incidentally, scorns the aeroplane idea. He says there is plenty of hooch on the market without bringing it from Canada, and says that there is (Continued on Page Three.)

PRICES ARE FALLING FAST.

The days of the profiteer are coming to an end. This genial gentleman is still looking for excuses for stinging the poor devil out of his dollar, but his methods are crude and the public is getting wise to his system very fast.

There is reported from Washington decisive declines in prices of most of the staple necessities, including clothing. There has been a pronounced decline in speculation, principally because of lack of money, the banks having put the pincers on borrowers all over the country. In the past three years it has been the habit of big dealers in goods of all kinds to borrow large sums and stock up on everything that was for sale, with a view to peddling out the stuff at immense profits. They have been getting away with much of this inflated priced stuff and the public has paid the bill.

Recently, however, the tightening of money has forced a lot of dealers to let go of the big stocks of stuff they had bought at high prices and to sell for any price they could secure, which has caused a decided decline all along the line.

In Omaha there are still being made attempts to squeeze the buyer, however. Such staple commodities as sugar are selling at half a dozen prices, all depending on what the buyer will stand for. The Milder sugar, 85,000 pounds, has been forced on the market at 17 1-2 cents. Some grocers are still demanding 23 cents for the same grade.

It is said there is to be another boost in rents in the near future. This boost is scheduled for some apartment houses. It has been suggested that the law against profiteering may be invoked against these landlords. Some very specific cases might be mentioned. Warnings are being sent out by Uncle Sam to government employees to keep watch on all these fellows and drastic action is threatened in the event of attempts being made to further boost rents in this city.

COX FURNISHES THE PROOF.

The figures presented, with statements of facts offered with them, by Governor Cox to show that the republican party was raising a slush fund of fifteen million dollars has given the country quite a shock. It is said most of this money has come from profiteers who hoped to continue their lawlessness for another four years in the event of a republican victory. Be this as it may, there is every indication that Cox was about right in his statement.

But with all that, there are two sides to this question. In the first place, everybody who has had anything to do with running political campaigns knows that it takes money to run them. Somebody has to contribute this money and the big campaign contributor is invariably the fellow who expects to get something back for his money.

Let it be known that it is taking a lot of money to run the republican campaign, just as it is taking a lot of money to run the democratic campaign. It might be suggested to Governor Cox that he would do well to inform us about who are contributing to the democratic campaign fund and how much is being invested in it.

It is quite probable the republicans are able to dig up the most money for this campaign, but that does not alter matters a great deal. A very large bundle of money will be spent by both of the dominant political parties. It is poor business to do much talking about campaign funds, because the campaign strong box is an institution and it is an institution that is here to stay, despite all las that may be passed to govern contributions.

Some inside information about campaign contributions might be turned loose that would enlighten the whole world and it has been suggested that Governor Cox would do well to let this campaign money business drop before something happens on his own side of the fence.

FRANK BANDLE NEARLY

BOUGHT A STEEL MILL

Frank Bandle, who has been in San Francisco for more than a year, writes that he came near buying a steel mill in San Francisco, there being only the small difference of $3,000,000 in the purchase price he offered and the price asked. Frank was a candidate two years ago for county office. He lost despite the fact that his political advertisements appeared in The Mediator. He called several times at this office to pay for the advertisements, but found nobody at home. He insisted on paying for it, however, and his letter contained a check for the amount.

Bandle had his own griefs in this city, but he still has a lot of friends in Omaha.

Quotation About Ballads.

Andrew Fletcher of Saltour, Scotland, who lived from 1653 to 1716, wrote in a letter to the marquis of Montrose and others in 1703 as follows: "I knew a very wise man so much of Sir Christopher's sentiment that he believed if a man were permitted to make all the ballads he need not care who should make the laws of a nation." This was part of an imaginary conversation concerning a "right regulation of governments for the common good of mankind."

Better Babies

We are absolutely certain that Young America, in all its glory, will be well represented at the 1920 "Prosperity" State Fair Better Babies' Contest.

We limit the number to two hundred, as that is all we can handle during the week. The entries in this department close Aug. 25th, so if you desire to enter your baby, be sure to do so in time.

The object of this department—which should be considered one of vital importance but to those following—is to give to the world and humanity just what the title indicates—"Better Babies". We want to help every mother make her child more perfect in every way, and to teach her the most approved methods of rearing a baby in such a way as to equip it in the best possible manner to go into the world unhandicapped.

Only children between the ages of eighteen and thirty-six months are eligible to enter this contest. For further information, address the Secretary, Lincoln, Nebr.

Defective Children

On Thursday of State Fair week, we have a department in which mothers of ailing children should be vitally interested. On that date we receive and examine all children who may be termed "defective" in any respect, up to the age of twelve years. We secure the services of the best specialists to be obtained, and the advice and assistance tendered to the mother is free. We feel this is an important part of the work in promoting better health among children and trust this offer will be taken advantage of by all mothers who feel their children are in need of special treatment. For entry blanks and further information, address the Secretary, Lincoln, Nebr.

Attention, Swine Breeders

All entries for the State Fair in the swine department, with the fee for the pens and ticket, must be in the office of the secretary not later than Saturday, Aug. 21st, at six o'clock p. m.

Poultry

The entries in Class "F", Poultry, close Thursday night, Sept. 2nd, at six p. m. Make your entries early so there will be no mistakes. We do not take entries in this department after that date.

administration has been to "frame" every former police officer off the force and his attempts have been uniformly successful. The list is a long one, with John Dunn the last victim, and the present acting detective chief, Anderson, is slated to follow. Old officers who cared anything for their reputations, their families and for the privilege of existing a few years longer, have used good judgment and got off their jobs until the people make a change in police heads next spring.

Mrs. Eberstein is back and even he has discovered that he is slated for the slaughter house. Although Eberstein will not be missed, it is really comical to see him opening a battle against removal. He will "get his" just as sure as God Almighty made little apples, because Mr. Ringer has double-crossed every friend he ever had.

In this connection, The Omaha Bee has slated Colonel Grant, former army officer for the position of chief of police. It would seem funny to see this pensioner on the job. He would at once employ a few old spavs who have been shavetails in the army and put them at work making soldiers out of our policemen. These fellows would be organized into a branch of the regular army and would, of course, be put through the business of becoming real soldiers as soon as they could be collected on the training field. They would all have rifles and be taught the manual of arms and marching tactics, while private citizens were kept busy policing their own neighborhoods.

Colonel Grant is a real son of his father and knows about as much about operating a police force as a pig knows about Latin. One advantage for the people is that we are to have a new city commission within a few months, which will tend to relieve the unpleasant conditions we have been experiencing for two and a half years. It will be interesting to watch the final result of the Dolan-Hagerman-Lundeen affair. Dolan has been considered one of the "insiders" with Mr. Ringer and it is a safe guess that it will not be Ringer's fault if Dolan's official head is severed. There is an inside story to this business that has never come out and is not likely to be made public. It is possible Dolan will be "advised" in the matter, and will take that advice just as it is handed to him. It is not believed, however, that he will again be active in the detective department.

From all indications, Mayor Smith blew up matters considerably for Ringer while that flat head was on vacation.

AEROPLANE BOOZE IS OUR LATEST REPORT

no excuse for holding up the imbibers for more than $5 per pint.

It is now estimated that more than 300 persons are dispensing moonshine whiskey in Omaha proper. On the South Side "everybody's doing it." Down there the beer business is a popular one, and it is being peddled for 50 cents per quart with the demand very great. Some of this beer is pretty good and it is made in big batches, for sale to the thousands of thirsty customers who are able to purchase a few bottles.

The aeroplane story is so absurd that it is being much laughed about among those who know where there is always plenty of ready moonshine on tap at the popular price of $5 per pint and 50c per drink. "Why, Omaha does not need any aeroplanes to bring in its booze," is the way one of the fellows puts it. "We have plenty of it right here in the city and surrounding country. It is being made in five and ten barrel lots and most of it is pretty good stuff. I bought a gallon the other day for $18, and it is about as good as Ed Maurer used to serve over the bar at 15c or two for a quarter. This aeroplane talk is liable to spoil the business entirely if they don't let up on it."

Of course, some of the boys are being raided, but this does not seem to disturb the business. The demand increases daily and one of the big diversions of the youngsters who want to see a little of real life is to promote the sale of this delectable stuff. In fact the prohibition law, as was expected, has already become a dead letter and appears to be given about the same respect that our Sunday laws are given right along.

During the last week numerous raids have been pulled off, but these raids have not served to diminish the business to any great extent.
