EAST SIDE DIVES DRIVEN OUT

BAD WEATHER PROVES THAT THE RACES ARE POPULAR

Followers Of The Ponies Swarm To Ak-Sar-Ben Field To See Them Run In The Mud

MANY TRACK RECORDS MADE THIS WEEK

Saturday Program is a Dandy and Should Bring Out the Populace by the Regiment—Eight More Days and the Full Will Be Over—Writer Tries His Hand At Selections.

If any doubt has ever existed concerning the popularity of Spring racing in Omaha, it has been dispelled this week. With the greatest amount of rain falling ever known in these parts, with murky skies and miserable hoofing, there has been fine crowds out every day. Rain or shine the fair sex has been well represented on both pay and free days.

Apparently the Mutuals have had a bigger play this year than during any other time since the game has been established here. Just enough long shots have come in to keep interest at fever heat. Interviews with scores of betterers down beneath the stand indicate there are less losers this year than formerly. The wise boys are playing the favorites heavy while playing their small change on the long shots. That is one reason they are at least keeping even.

Thursday's racing was one of the best balanced and thrilling of the meet so far. The feature race was the fifth in which My Daddy nosed out Virginus after as pretty a race down the stretch as any one could wish to see. Doubtful showed while Chiva and Al Hotfoot also ran. Those in the money were all favorites so the mutuals didn't pay enough to buy a used postage stamp.

The best money of the day was paid third race when Montdale under a hard ride came tearing across the tape to win $400 for herself and $17.40 to her backers for each two buck ticket. Eleven nags went to the wire and got away to a good start with the exception of Oklahoma who stalled around the starting place to view the scenery.

The fourth race of the day brought out some fast horse flesh, most of whom have been in the money on several occasions. Miss Emma G who won the race had as contenders such goers and favorites as Full Moon who placed, Sea Mint running into show mazumma, Miriam Wood, Manikan II and Faithful Girl.

Other races on Thursday were exciting and full of interest to all except the losers who couldn't be expected to rave over the contest. Wednesday's racing was all but as interesting as those of yesterday. In fact with very few exceptions every race this week has been a darb as Darby Hicks would say.

Trying our hand at selections for this afternoon's (Friday) selections and knowing the readers will not get to see them until after the races this p. m. we suggest the following as Huntley's selections. If they are wrong no one will have a come back unless it is a few of the boys in the print shop who will see them in time and may take a flyer.

1. Fernandos, Bobby Allen, Spinaway.
2. Emma G, Hindoostan, Noonhour.
3. Ask Jessie, Pay Off, The Almoner.
4. Nebraska Lad, Tubby A., White Haven.
5. Randal's Royal, Walnut Hall, Queen Catherine.
6. Mary Jane Baker, Bess Welch, Winner Take All.
7. Bill Head, The Desert, Felix M.

"MYSTERIOUS" GAS STATION ON 16TH ST. IS NO MYSTERY AT ALL TO PEOPLE

Fine Italian Hand of John D. Rockefeller Seen in Attempt to Put Munny Station Out of Business—Hopkins Plan Still Popular Though Place Doing Little Business Now—Autoists Profit.

Why all this excitement over the "mysterious" gas station at Sixteenth and Nicholas streets. It is certainly a busy place, with four or five pumps going all the time. And, beside that they have a fine little girl cashier who takes your money when you take the gas. There is a man for each pump, and he is kept busy, too. That is the way John D. Rockefeller does business. Any person in doubt can see the fine Italian mit of John D. in every move that is made there, because there is no doubt about their intention to do business, and to accomplish just what they set out to do. John D. usually does that little thing.

To start with, our friend Hopkins, an Omaha city commissioner, opened a gasoline and oil station, where he sold his products at decidedly lower prices than others were selling at. This was alright while it lasted. But John D. saw that it was bad for the oil business and got busy. He believes in ethics, even in gas. John D. is prepared to sell gas at five cents, or do anything else not criminal, to chase Mr. Hopkins munny oil station off the map. Then, he says, somebody can make a living. That is John D's way of putting it squarely up to anybody.

He has accomplished other things as great as putting a city, even as large as Omaha, off the map, and he is not going to let a little thing like a mny oil station run him out of business. In fact that is one of his old tricks. When Mr. Hopkins' station is willing to get out of business, so will the mysterious gas station.

And right here Commissioner Hopkins has an opportunity to cover himself with glory. He may be the next president of the United States if he will insist on keeping that gas station going. He does not need to sell gas at thirteen cents a gallon. All he needs do is to keep the rest of them from selling above fifteen cents. Other cities are not enjoying thirteen-cent gas, nor fifteen-cent gas either, for that matter. Omaha will want an explanation if they have to again pay more than fifteen cents a gallon for gasoline. It has been conclusively shown tht any higher price is simply robbery. A man was shot the other night for robbery.

John D. Rockefeller's oil business has been operated on just these lines for nearly or quite fifty years. Omaha has never come into contact with him before, although he has driven hundreds of competitors out of business. That is the reason you know him so well. That is the reason he gives away a million or two of dollars every year. That is the reason he endows every institution that calls itself Christian. That is the reason he is such a big churchman.

The Mediator hopes he will keep right on selling gasoline at thirteen cents. But Omaha people should protect themselves against a raise, and not abandon their municipal station. It has been a brilliant success even if it is not doing so much business right now.

Incidentally, it is said some other oil men are vitally interested in the business, and are keeping pretty mum just now.

NOT SO MUCH GENUINE STUFF

There will probably not be so much genuine whiskey sold in the city for a while as Bob Samardick grabbed a box containing several thousand labels, revenue stamps and other paraphernalia. The names sounded good, they included Old Taylor, Green River and other brands that would make any man's mouth water had they been pasted on the real thing.

Morrie Must Box Eddie Shevlin at 147 Pounds

Fight at Auditorium Next Friday Should Prove To Be Popular With Fight Followers

Omaha fight bugs will be given a real fistic treat when they see the clever Dartmouth boxing instructor, Eddie Shevlin in action against Morrie Schlaifer at the Auditorium, Friday night, June 20. Shevlin besides keeping in trim through constant workouts with his college proteges has been fighting the top notch welters in the east and knocking them for a row of petticoats.

Shevlin's last fight was with Eddie Burnbrook which he won handily but only after a hard scrap. He is to arrive Monday or Tuesday and go through his stuff every afternoon until the night of the fight. Morrie will have to train down for this match as Shevlin demands that the Kid make 147 on the afternoon of the big show. That's giving Boys best bet a hard job but it can be done. Shevlin will weigh 145.

Preliminaries have not been announced yet but Jake Isaacson is assisting matchmaker George Hill which assures good material from first prelim to final.

OMAHA OWES HOMER DALE MORE THAN VOTE-OF THANKS

Homer Dale, the heroic colored fellow, who plugged a robber full of shot out at the home of Walter Head the other night, is entitled to a medal for his bravery, and the people of Omaha could little less than make up a purse for this brave young man.

There are not many people, even with the opportunity that came to Dale, who would take the risk he did. And beside that risk he committed a very commendable act, an act for which the community should show their appreciation in some way. If we had more men like Dale, these robberies we hear of every day would lessen to an appreciable degree in short order. It is no crime to kill a man in the act of burglarizing a home.

NEBRASKA SIXTH IN SCHOOLS

Nebraska, thirty-first state in population, is sixth in schools, and second lowest in the proportion of illiterates among its inhabitants.

Nebraska has one school, elementary, secondary, public and private, professional and commercial, for every 38 students attending, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Publicity of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce. It has one such school for every 167 persons living in the state. In both respects it stands in sixth place among the states.

That is perhaps the reason why Nebraska has only 1.4 per cent of its population illiterate, with only Iowa, with 1.1 per cent illiteracy, outranking it.

There are 298,619 Nebraska boys and girls attending the 7,743 schools in the state, and approximately $20,580,000 is spent annually for their education. Of this amount $16,028,366 is spent for instruction, and in this respect but seventeen states spend a larger sum.

Nebraska has a public school investment of $42,145,281 for buildings and equipment, or an average of $135 a pupil. This places the state nineteenth in the union in total value of schools, and twentieth in the investment per pupil.

Only twelve states send a larger number of their young folks to college.

DENNIS O'BRIEN OPENS WELL EQUIPPED OFFICE IN PETERS TRUST BLDG.

Dennis O'Brien whose private practice grew to such proportions that he was forced to resign as City prosecutor has opened up a splendidly equipped law office in the Peters Trust Building. O'Brien, it is generally admitted, made one of the most effective prosecutors the city has ever known. He successfully prosecuted hundreds of cases coming before him as attorney for the city and has met with an equal degree of success in his private practice. Mr. O'Brien enjoys the personal acquaintance and friendship of most of the judges of the city as well as with many attorneys and hundreds of private citizens.

KNOCKS AND BOOSTS BY THE OBSERVER

A. V. KINSLER, who used to be on the staff of The Mediator but is now right hand hower to John D. Rockefeller, woke up to find himself the father of a fine girl. A. V. says it takes a good man to make a girl at this stage of the game. Kinsler knew how to turn out a good job on anything he attempted.

MAUDE JONES in court told the judge her old man slapped her a plenty because she was hard of hearing. Chances are her spouse believed she was lying about it because she couldn't hear when he asked her for two bits for a drink from her wash money.

HARRY STROESSER, whose fiery black mustache was a hirshute adornment, possessed by no other citizen was elected president of the Carpenters Union this week. The carpenters were up against it for material, more so even than the republicans for a vice president, so they just elected Harry' cause the office had to be filled. He wasn't a bad scout at that.

FRIDAY the 13th still throws a scare into some people. Up at the court house the divorce judge was all but taking a vacation. Bootleggers say it is no more unlucky than the rest of the days. That must be true this year.

POLICE DEPARTMENT TO CLEAN UP THE OLD UNDERWORLD

Make A Good Start This Week On East Side Houses Where Prostitution Flourishes

DUDLEY AND ANDERSON STIR UP MESS

Former Police Officers Turn In List of "Joints" To The Great Christian Reformer, F. D. Wead, Who Attempts To Have Daily News Feature—Too Hot For The Pink Sheet—Northwestern Railroad Interested in Clean Up.

Omaha's down district is in for another cleaning, says Sergeant Crawford, who has been entrusted with the duty. Crawford is some cleaner, too. Already he has staged a few raids on houses where lewd women and their pimps have accumulated enough money to pay a months rental. This is only a starter. Crawford is not giving out any information about what is going on or about to go. The tip is out, however, and every questionable district north of Douglas street and east of Sixteenth better take notice.

Former Police officers Anderson and Dudley, have been making it their business to locate these people. They did not mind them while they were on the force. That is one of the reasons they are not on the force today. They have been locating them since they were let out and they found plenty of them. They at once made report to F. D. Wead, that great defender of morals and all 'round reformer, who got busy. He at once called at the Daily Shriek, where he gave the location of these places to the editor, hoping of course to start something. The Daily News has just been through one of its thrilling campaigns, in which it learned how little it amounted to. For that reason it did not take Mr. Wead as seriously as he had hoped.

"We have lost enough subscribers already," the editor told Wead. And that is the truth, too. At any rate the News confined itself to only brief mention of the affair. It learned that the police department was already on the job and that they were a trifle late with their advice.

The Northwestern railroad was the real cause of all the stir. That institution found that women were laboring all day and at nights in their efforts to do a little business. They were all bootleggers and ordinary prostitutes that tend to spoil life for the decent man. Hence the complaint.

An investigation, which is a regular thing for Mr. Dunn, was undertaken by the police with the result that Sergeant Crawford started on his rounds, and began to run these blacklegs and their women down. He found conditions deplorable he said. The promoters, a bunch of cheap Jews, had corraled a regiment of painted fairies and were flouting them to the world in no uncertain manner. They were working two shifts, with lookouts to assist. Jefferson Square was one of their best places for action. Here they picked them up, coming and going. Among them was Pauline, down on Izard street. She had just finished knocking her pimp for a home run, hitting him with the billiard cue. She nearly put him out for good. Pauline has been operating at 1611 Izard street, where it was said hooch was the cause of her downfall.

The other places chosen by Crawford for action were of the same sort. Women quickly smelled trouble and most of them made their escape, (Continued on page 4)

JEFFERIS ENTRY, DAWES, WINS HANDICAP AT CLEVELAND AFTER SECOND HEAT

Coolidge To Have As Stable-Mate Multi-Millionaire Banker Who Opposes Labor—For Open Shop — Both Choices Slap At Western Interests—Eastern Delegates Control The Big Show.

The Republican convention nominated "Hell and Maria" Dawes for vice president and incidently Cal. Coolidge for president. This is the first time in the history of the party an opening sentence to a story could be so written and carry a real significance. It was a forgone conclusion Coolidge would be nominated whether the west liked it or not. The republicans had to do it to save their various faces.

For Vice President the delegates spotted the President several balls yet beat him every game. Butler, the Coolidge manager picked Borah, but the Idaho senator absolutely refused to be a stable mate to Cal. Then the administration wanted Burton who was carrying too much weight for the heavy track in the Cleveland Auditorium and he couldn't make the circuit. Kenyon was a favorite but he had an inexperienced jockey so he was out of the money and was glad of it.

Hoover got nowhere so it remained for a Nebraskan to take the reins and start a race with a boss that just had to come in so long as he was a favorite in this state. Therefore Jim Jefferis got up in the grandstand and told the boys and girls to get their money on Dawes, who he said had just won the Derby over in Europe held at the Monitary conference track. He also pointed to the fact that the general had won the Bankers Swearing Handicap on several occasions. Furthermore the former congressman pointed out that his nag was in prime condition and could run in the dark as well as during the day.

Hearing this the rail birds got together and had the meet postponed until night where the Jefferis entry could run without blinders. The rest is history. Everybody got on him the jockey bringing Dawes home several lengths ahead of the field. The book-makers will be unable to pay off until after November 4, and then it may be in useless script.

The Nebraska delegation got a pretty raw deal all around at the convention. They had some pet measures they wanted to slip in the more or less useless document, referred to as the platform. They didn't get to first base along that line as the Eastern delegation knew just what they wanted and how to get it.

While they voted for Coolidge, many of the delegates would have preferred a dozen other possible candidates. The delegation favored Dawes but they were licked on the choice, as the convention actually nominated Frank O. Lowden but he refused point blank to accept the place. After other refusals and bickerings Dawes was nominated as a compromise. If the republicans of this state get any satisfaction through the nomination of Dawes, a multimillionaire banker, labor hater and open shop advocate they are surely entitled to it.

As a result of various dickerings, the convention, against its real will selected General Dawes. There is not much objection to Dawes—in reality he would make a better man for the place Coolidge was selected to take. That is not here nor there, however. The republicans are simply up against it this year. They were afraid to turn down Coolidge. It has now come to the point, where they find they had better done so. Republican leaders are not at all satisfied. The result may even be another bolt.

The best they can now do is to slip along and keep their organization intact, if that is possible. They can expect no more. It only remains for the democrats to shoosh a man of standing, and one in whom the voters will have confidence.

G. O. P. HAS ITS GRIEFS.

The Grand Old Party has been having its griefs at Cleveland this week. It has come from various sources, chief of which, perhaps, is the tendency of their leaders to kick over the traces of what has heretofore been republican policy, so-called, and have decided that either republicanism is all wrong or that they are right.

The old reactionary spirit, which has so long held sway within the republican ranks, is about to be busted. With fifty republicans in the United States senate, President Coolidge learned just what they thought of him when thirty-five of them voted against him on the bonus bill. Had he been the leader, boasted of by his friends, they would all have been voting with him, whether they liked his style or not. Some of the things Mr. Coolidge has done have simply been contemptible, in the view of his party adherents. The result is now apparent in the action of the republican national convention, which has just completed its work in Cleveland.

The biggest work of that national body was to select a man for vice president who was big enough and had enough of the confidence of the voters of the country, to re-elect President Coolidge. Former Governor Lowden of Illinois was first selected. That wise gentleman saw not only his own defeat, however, but also the defeat of his running mate, Mr. Coolidge. For that reason, which was plenty, Lowden declined absolutely to be what is termed the "fall guy" for Mr. Coolidge. In this decision Lowden showed his courage and wisdom. Then General Dawes was picked on. Dawes whose backbone is apparently made of entirely different material from that of Mr. Lowden's was chosen to become the goat. The convention did not want Dawes very bad, but it was a case of Hobson's choice, they simply had to nominate somebody. How far "Hell and Maria's strength will bolster up the Coolidge campaign is still questionable.

One thing appears to be a dead moral certainty. The democrats have nothing to worry about. Any sort of a man who puts a "democratic handle" to his name will be elected, hands down. It will give the democratic party the opportunity of its existence. If they will find a great big man, in whom the people have reasonable confidence, he can be easily put over.

There is a decided split within the ranks of the republican party, for which Mr. Coolidge may thank nobody except himself. Besides being a reactionary beyond degree, he has surrounded himself with the same type of men as himself, much to the disgust of the party, the result is plainly visible, and its too late to correct it before the campaign is on. In fact the campaign is already on. La Follette has given indication that he and his followers will declare themselves an independent body, which in itself is an ill omen of more than ordinary proportions. He has plenty of followers in the northeast and many in other parts of the country. In some respects he is a Roosevelt, only more radical than the Colonel was.

At any rate, the Coolidge machine will have very hard sledding, and if the republican party is not wrecked on the Coolidge rock, it will be because a few of the wise heads get in their last minute's work.

At any rate, the Coolidge machine will have very hard sledding, and if the republican party is not wrecked on the Coolidge rock, it will be because a few of the wise heads get in their last minute's work.

WHAT A PREACHER OBSERVES.

An Omaha minister, who is engaged every day in the work of his Maker, has written a few lines for The Mediator this week, which touch the high spots in the reform business. They are not as handsome as they are to the point. This gentleman is one of the honest to God men who are preaching the gospel and practicing what he preaches. What do you think of them:

"When you try to tell the police department how to run their work, do you know all sides of their problems or are you just talking from what others have said?

Could you expect officers who are trained in their department to run your business and make a success of it; if not how are you able to advise how their department should be run when you are not trained in that work yourself?

Don't you think that we all would be better off if we allowed every man or group of men to run their own business and each man or group of men attend to their own business?

We feel that what this old world needs is a good dose of work and that work confined to the immediate task over which they may be placed, and we feel that if a lot of our free advisors would do their own work that they would be so ever lasting busy that they would not have time to criticize any one else."

TEN COMMANDMENTS IN DRIVING; SAFE DRIVING IN ANY LANGUAGE

1. At the rise of the hand of policeman, stop rapidly.
2. Do not pass him or otherwise disrespect him.
3. When a passenger of the foot hove in sight, tootle the horn; trumpet at him melodiously at first, but if he still obstacles your passage, tootle him with vigor and express by word of mouth the warning: "Hi, hi!"
4. Beware the wandering horse, that he shall not take fright as you pass him by. Do not explode an exhaust blow at him. Go soothingly by.
5. Give big space to the festive dog that shall sport in the roadway.
6. Avoid entanglement of dogs with the wheel spokes.
7. Go soothingly on the grease, mud, and avert the skid demon.
8. Press the brake of the foot as you roll around the corner, to save collapse and tie-up.
9. Remember, the other man expects the same of you that you do of him.
10. Liquor and gas don't mix; don't try it. Sense, safety, and courtesy are the same in all languages.

Bulldog Summons Aid for Stricken Master

Waukegan, Ill.—Faithfulness and trained instinct of Spot, a famous bulldog, probably saved the life of John McElroy, sixty-five years old, well-known Waukegan resident, recently. The dog made a trip to the police station from the outskirts of the 'city when his master suffered a paralytic stroke and fell to the sidewalk.

When his master fell the dog started barking, but to no avail, and then raced to the police station. By howling loudly and starting off in the direction where the man was lying, the animal succeeded in getting an officer to go to McElroy's aid.

HELD FOR CRUELTY TO DUMB ANIMALS

Eccentric Canadian Sisters Said to Be Wealthy.

Chatham, Ont.—Grotesquely clad in ragged burlap, which was fastened to their bodies by hay wire, two elderly spinsters, well educated and reputed wealthy, were arraigned in police court, charged with cruelty to animals. They are Luella and Mary Ann Radmore, whom authorities lured away from their valuable 200-acre farm in Romeny township, where they had to fire their guns into the air a score of times to frighten away the "evil spirits" which the spinsters vowed lurked in the neighborhood.

The arresting officers told the court that the prisoners were wearing the same kind of clothes they had worn when taken into custody seven years ago on another charge of cruelty to animals. Milton Shaw, the jailer, later reported that the prisoners refused to doff the garb for the feminine garments of civilization he obtained for them.

The cruelty charges were based upon evidence on the farm that many of the sheep, hogs and cattle whose carcasses were found had died of starvation.

The sisters were sent to jail for a week to be examined as to their sanity, while the charges could be investigated further. Their eighty-two-year-old mother, who lived on the farm with them, was brought into court later and placed in the care of welfare authorities.

Hidden Alarm Clock Undoing of Accused

Chicago.—Comely Miss Lillian Smith stood before the bench in the South Clark street court charged with shop-lifting.

"One veil," enumerated the policeman, holding aloft one by one the articles found in her possession, "one string of beads, four pairs of silk hose, three handkerchiefs, one powder puff, four Teddies."

"Four what," asked Judge Eberhardt.

"Step-ins."

"What—"

"Underwear!" blurted the exasperated bluecoat. "And," he continued, "one extra large alarm clock."

"My goodness!" exclaimed the judge.

"How did she conceal that?"

"The store detective heard it ringing and—"

"Where did she have it?"

"Why, er-a, why er—the matron found it."

"Where?"

"In her—er a under—"

"Under where?"

"Yes."

"Ninety days!" shouted the judge.

Consistent Misspelling Lands Culprit in Jail

St. Louis.—A test in spelling ordinary words played a prominent part in bringing about the conviction in Federal court here of Samuel L. Sheets of Paris, Ill., on a charge of sending threatening letters through the mails. As a result, Sheets will have to pass two years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas.

On January 31, J. P. Sparks, a road contractor of Kirkwood, a suburb of this city, and former employer of Sheets, received a letter in which the threat was made that "assid" would be thrown in Mrs. Sparks' "faze" and that Sparks' little daughter would be injured. To emphasize his demand for $2,500, the writer stated he "menr" business, and left the inference that some one of the Sparks family would "disapeer" if the demand were not "complied with."

Boy Tease Dies When Stabbed by Angry Girl

Omaha, Neb.—Jabbing at neighborhood girls with a pin-tipped stick cost the life of Robert Effenberger, fourteen, when Aileen Ralph, thirteen, plunged a hatpin into his chest, puncturing a blood vessel. The youth died in ten minutes.

"Every night the boys in the neighborhood have been sticking the girls with pins on sticks," Aileen told police. "I got a hatpin and told the other girls that if they came near any more I was going to stick them good."

Robert chased her and lunged toward her with a stick, she said, and fell back when she defended herself with the hatpin. He ran a few steps, fainted and died without regaining consciousness.

THE GEEVUM GIRLS

Rich Woman Fined

New York.—Two wealthy women, a mother and daughter, were fined in court for shoplifting. They gave their names as Mrs. Margaret Holden and Miss Catherine Holden. They arrived at the store which they robbed in a limousine.

Why His Horse Vanished

Williamsport, Pa.—Placidly plowing preparatory to planting corn, Thomas, Tule, a farmer residing near Williamsport, received the shock of his life when one of the horses disappeared. An investigation showed it had fallen into a hole seven or eight feet deep, but was uninjured. The Tule farm is underlaid with limestone slowly disintegrating through dissolution by water. The horse stepped on a "weak" spot, which caused its sudden disappearance.

Cursing Costs a Dime

Alexandria, Va.—Cursing in the Alexandria police station hereafter costs 10 cents for each offense. What is dubbed a profanity box has been put up and the police see that the toll is collected from all violators. Funds are coming in rapidly. The money goes to charity.

Man Breaks Into Jail and Gets 5-Year Term

Coalgate, Okla.—Five years in the state penitentiary for breaking into jail was the penalty imposed upon Tommy Wilson. Wilson was discharged from jail after serving a term for disturbing the peace.

A few nights later he appeared at the jail to renew acquaintances, but found the door locked. Securing a ladder, Wilson pried several bars off a cell window and invited his friends to escape. They declined and told the jailer. Wilson pleaded guilty.

Chamois, Fox and Eagle Fight

Davos, Switzerland.—A Swiss hunter reports a three-cornered battle between a chamois, a fox and an eagle. The fox attacked the chamois and had almost killed it when an eagle attacked the fox and chased it away. Before the eagle had time to eat the chamois, which had died meantime, the hunter rushed from his hiding place and scared the bird away.

The eagle remained in a neighboring tree, however, where he could watch the chamois. By placing a trap near the dead chamois the hunter captured the eagle.

$30,000,000 Annually From Nebraska's Milk Pail

At nightfall, slowly wending their way homeward, down the lanes of Nebraska's farms, come half a million cows.

Nebraska's milk cows add some $30,000,000 annually to the state's wealth through the production of about 200,000,000 gallons of milk, from which are made about 65,000,000 pounds of butter, 2,600,000 gallons of ice cream, 600,000 pounds of cheese and about 5,000,000 pounds of condensed milk. During the past three years the number of milk cows in Nebraska has increased about 15 per cent.

All of Nebraska's industries are growing and this requires more and more telephone service. At the present rate that Nebraska is growing, the Bell System must spend about three-fourths of a million dollars annually for new local and long distance telephone property in this state.

The growing demand for telephone service requires vast sums of money from investors to furnish new telephone facilities. Nearly half a million people have already purchased Bell System stock or bonds. We shall be pleased to have you as an investor in the business. Ask our Manager or any telephone employee for full information about Bell stock or bonds.

As Nebraska prospers, the telephone is successful. Therefore, we constantly strive to provide reliable telephone service at the lowest possible charges consistent with reasonable wages to employees and a fair return on the money invested in the business.

BARTHELMESS REVIVES FADING FILM GLORIES OF FORT LEE

Star of "The Enchanted Cottage" Creates Picture Classics in Old Time Studio Center, Without Resorting to Hollywood Atmosphere

A young man peered into a mirror. He looked at his crippled form, his sunken cheeks, his sunken eyes. "Damn you!" he cried. "Go away and hide yourself!"

Seven times he repeated this bit of action, and seven times a movie camera worked away.

Go away and hide yourself. A visitor at the Inspiration Studio, making his first trip to Fort Lee, N. J., in several years, with this command repeated seven times, could not help coupling it with the community's fall as a movie producing. Gosh, that's what all the photoplay stars who used to work at Fort Lee have been doing. At least as far as Fort Lee is concerned. Of course, they haven't really hidden themselves. They've hid off to Los Angeles and sunlight. The mists of the Hudson have been too much for them.

The man who was exhorting himself to do the Nicky Arnstein trick was Richard Barthelmess, the inspiration star. The picture was Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's "The Enchanted Cottage," produced on the stage in New York last year and going into the Strand Theatre next week as a First National film attraction. Unusual as a photoplay? Perhaps, but Barthelmess has found that his unusual pictures were the best liked. There was "Tol'able David," for instance. That was the picture which really brought this dark-haired young man to film fame. There was "Sonny," "Fury," "The Bright Shawl" and "The Fighting Blade." And now "The Enchanted Cottage," in which he plays the part of a battle scarred veteran of the Great War, and proves that as a character actor he need concede nothing to any other film star.

Before we saw Barthelmess telling his mirrored self to "beat it," we wandered outside the studio and saw the great street set depicting the city of Oxford, England, which was used as a background for an exterior scene in "The Enchanted Cottage." Director John S. Robertson, who had been guiding Barthelmess in his acting, showed us through the winding, narrow, cobble-stone streets, past old English houses and shops.

Barthelmess is reviving Fort Lee. "In the East," he said, "there are fine studio facilities, and any pictures demanding only interiors can be made as well in Fort Lee as in Hollywood. Of course, when it comes to outdoor shots, California, with its sunshine, is more suitable than New Jersey."

We asked Barthelmess to name the photoplay actress who in his opinion dominates the silent drama. "Mary Pickford," he replied, "does far better work than her critics generally credit her with. Her work on the screen is masterful, principally because she succeeds so well in offering the illusion of extreme youth, but Lillian Gish undoubtedly has proved her right to a premier ranking by her work in 'The White Sister'. Perhaps I am a little prejudiced, as next year I expect to play Romeo opposite Miss Gish's Juliet, but you may take my choice or leave it."

"And the greatest male star?" we asked. Just then Director Robertson joined us. He said nothing, but the index finger of his right hand pointed squarely at Dick.

Later, when we watched Dick work before the camera, looking for all the world like the mishapen veteran of the World War, spine-crippled as a result of an aeroplane fall—the part which he plays in "The Enchanted Cottage"—we were certain that Mr. Robertson was right. Barthelmess lives the part and that is the greatest bouquet one can bestow on any actor. Incidentally, Barthelmess is a regular fellow and that is the best recommendation one man can give another.

OMAHA OWES HOMER DALE MORE THAN VOTE OF THANKS

Omaha is thankful. The best of it all was he made a perfect job of it. After shooting one burglar fatally, he fired other shots which went to the spot, and resulted in the capture of a man and two women who were implicated in the attempted burglary.

It is time for the people to sit up and take notice of such an example, and The Mediator is willing to head a purse for this brave colored fellow, who took his own life in his hands to prevent a burglar from going through with his game.

KLUXERS TO HOLD FOURTH NEXT SUNDAY ON MASON ST.

The Ku Klux Klan are going to pull some of their fine (American) stuff out at Forty-eight and Mason streets Sunday. Then Omaha people will be treated to the spectacle of a bunch of narrow minded people sending fiery crosses to the high heavens. The fire is probably a token of what one may expect will happen to him if he does not do as the self announced desire. If they are organizing very strongly here many expect to hear of a large number of secret killings.

Man's Arm Torn by Boar Held to Protect Crowd

Alexandria, Va.—Fearlessly thrusting his right arm into the path of a wild boar as he attempted to escape into the packed tent, Doc Brennan, veteran lecturer on the freaks of a show on North Washington street, suffered severe lacerations and for a while was at the mercy of the ferocious hog's three-inch tusks. Brennan was rushed to the Alexandria hospital.

More than a hundred women and children were in the tent when the animal went on a rampage as the lecturer opened the cage door to handle the "pet." With an ugly snarl the animal rushed for the door. Brennan, realizing the danger, thrust his arm in the path of the animal and, as calmly as possible, summoned aid. The hog was subdued finally by Charley Docen, its tamer, but not before Brennan's arm had been badly wounded.

At the hospital it was said that several of the wounds in the man's arm were of a dangerous nature. The largest laceration extended the entire length of the forearm and was more than an inch deep in places.

Carries Bullet 59 Years

Waterloo, N. Y.—After carrying a bullet in his hip for 59 years, Aaron D. Lohr, Civil war veteran, had it extracted at a local hospital. Early efforts to locate the bullet by probing were unsuccessful. Recently he experienced trouble with his hip. An examination showed the bullet had become loosened from the muscle or bone in which it had been imbedded, and the operation was ordered.

TALKS BURGLARS OUT OF ROBBERY

Criminal Lawyer Saves Jewelry Worth $4,000.

New York.—Frank W. Stanton, lawyer, of No. 1132 St. Nicholas avenue, adjoining Washington Heights court, told police of West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station he had talked two burglars out of robbing him of $4,000 in jewels.

He was returning from a boxing match to his home, No. 605 West One Hundred and Seventy-fifth street, he said, when he saw lights in his apartment. Suspecting burglars, he cried: "Don't shoot, I've got my hands up!" as he entered. He found the burglars had taken a pearl necklace, diamond pin and diamond studded wrist watch.

"Go ahead, I won't resist," he said to the intruders. "The joke's on me. But I've been defending guys like you 19 years."

"What do you mean?" one of the burglars asked him.

"Well, I'm Frank Stanton, criminal lawyer," he replied.

"Prove it," said one of the thieves.

Then, Stanton told police, he showed the men cards and letters, whereupon one of the burglars exclaimed: "Well, I'll be blowed! Here, take your stuff back. We wouldn't rob you."

"If I had talked to them ten minutes longer I believe I would have had their bank rolls," the lawyer said.

He added he did not recognize the burglars, although he thought it possible they might have been among clients he has defended.

Baby, Swept a Mile by Flood, Is Saved

Ware, Mass.—Riding on the crest of flood waters of the Ware river for nearly a mile and surviving was the experience of Rita Thidodeau, aged three, of this town. When she fell into the stream she was caught by the swift current and carried down the river.

Two men, who put out in a boat, were able to reach her before she sank. She was unconscious when taken from the water, but had fully recovered by night.

Flames Imperil Body

Louisville, Ky.—Firemen were called to Fourteenth and Chestnut streets to put out a fire that started in a hearse that was leading a funeral to Greenwood cemetery. The fire started from an overheated engine, and the driver, Roy Knight, and the pallbearers were compelled to remove the coffin and body and place it in a nearby yard until the firemen had the fire extinguished.

23 Pigs in a Litter

Longmeire, Cal.—T. A. Lewis, Glenn county farmer, believes he has the prize mother pig. Her first litter, just born, brought 23 pigs into the world and 15 are living. From this litter Lewis will have within six months more than a ton of pork to market.

MANY THRILLS IN STORY OF BIG RUM PLOT

Hijackers and Smugglers Stage
Fierce Battle in New Ince Film.

Whether you are for the bootlegger or against him, you will certainly find a tremendous "kick" as well as novel entertainment in Thomas H. Ince's spectacular "Those Who Dance" a First National release which si to open at the Rialto Saturday.

With one of the biggest casts presented this season, Ince has told a story that has set tongues wagging wherever his production has been shown. The bootlegger, the "hi-jacker," the rum-runner, the "stool pigeon," the ward politician and a dozen other types of the modern underworld play their part in the novel romance of a young lawyer who turns his wits against a gang of bootleggers after the tragic death of his young sister from wood-alcoholism, and a girl from a small town who drops in with the life of New York's underworld to save her brother from the same gang.

There is a throbbing heart interest in every sequence of this remarkable drama, for the characterization have been interpreted in masterly fashion. Blanche Sweet, fresh from winning laurels in "Anna Christie," has found opportunity for equally dramatic work in the role of "Rose Carney." The change which she effects on the screen from the innocent, ignorant girl from "up-state" to the sophisticated, bobbed-haired, cigarette-smoking underworld "queen" is an amazing revelation of cinema art.

Bessie Love, as the hardened little underworld queen, who offers a finished model for Rose's reincarnation; Warner Baxter playing the difficult role of the young lawyer who falls in love with Rose, and Mathew Betz, one of Ince's discoveries, portraying the unscrupulous bootleg king, offer a gallery of telling contrasts.

The action story against which the producer has silhouetted a hauntingly powerful romance, is one of the fastest-moving and most thrilling on record. Aside from the daringly unconventional situations which result when the heroine and her sweetheart pass themselves off as "affinities" to get evidence which will free Rose's brother from the death chair, there is a wealth of dramatic incident, such as the fight on the decks of the "rum-runner," the trapping of the truckload of contraband liquor and the climax when Rose and her sweetheart pit their wits against the cleverest crooks of the underworld when they are trapped at the annual ball.

POLICE DEPT. TO CLEAN UP THE OLD UNDERWORLD

some of them clad in all the fancy things that nature gave them. But when the police judge took a look at the crowd before him next morning he decided there had been a good nights work. They were all fined sums ranging from light to heavy. The mistresses of the places all received pretty good jolts, but the girls just sticking around the places, trying to earn a dollar, were given easy bills to pay.

"They have got to go," is Crawford's word, and Crawford is a pretty tough egg too. The pimp delegation is his worst element to deal with, but he is pretty well acquainted and there is only one way to handle them all without gloves. He is an awfully busy man. Meanwhile the North-western railroad is satisfied. One spokesman told The Mediator "We don't want these people down here any, there is only one way to handle them, which we are doing".

Meanwhile, Mr. Wead discovers that his informers were clearly misnomers and he is looking for something new to make trouble over. He says he can find it, too, and we guess he can.

Chokes on Peanut

Birmingham, Ala.—Four-year-old Dorthelia Best died here the other day as a result of swallowing a peanut. The peanut became lodged in her throat, and an operation failed to remove it. She died shortly afterward.
