MURDERED WOMAN IS STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Nebraska Historical Society
State University

Thousands of W Corps at Gentleman's Motigue, but Face Has Not Been Recognized.

IS BAFFLING BEYOND DESCRIPTION

Remarkable Crime Is Still Big Enigma to Police Officials and to Sheriff's Force—Murderers Cover Tracks Apparently in Scientific Manner.

At John Genteman's palatial funeral home on West Farnam street for the last week there has been stretched the body of a dead woman whom nobody has thus far been able to identify. It is probably the most remarkable case of the kind in the history of Omaha.

Thousands of persons, many of them from distant parts of the west, have visited the place to take a look at the features of the dead woman.

Immense numbers of men and women have wept as they took a look at the disfigured face but none has given a positive identification. Baffling beyond description, this murder was committed and the body thrown from an automobile into a ravine almost within the city limits. It had lain on the ground for two days before being discovered and the perpetrator had plenty of time to cover up his murderous deed.

A score of times the body has been identified, only for authorities to learn that the person who thought he or she recognized the face was mistaken. Like many other crimes recently committed, this one has come at a time when Omaha's police force was thoroughly disorganized. Not a single logical clue has been obtained to the identity either of the victim or the person who fired the fatal shot.

Omaha is not such a large city that a person can be murdered and not be missed, especially a woman of good address, as it would appear this woman was. The face has lost its original color, but many of the features are still sufficiently clear to make identification possible by a person who might have known the woman in life.

The person or persons who killed the victim apparently used considerable judgment in covering their tracks. The bloody clothing was replaced by unstained garments. The body was taken to a place where it might be gotten rid of with comparative ease and where it might not be found at once.

Somebody knew the now colorless victim well in life. She had a home; will ever be identified.

GENERAL PUBLIC BECOMES VICTIM OF MINERS' STRIKE EMBROGLIO

Entire Country Threatened With Coal Famine Because Parties to Wage Controversy Cannot Come to Settlement—Thousands Already Suffering in Cities.

Picking a goat for the coal strike is becoming a big business among those who are taking part in the controversy, but the great general public appears to be the real victims. And neither side is willing to go half way in relieving the situation.

The last decade has increased the demand for coal by nearly 100 per cent. The mine owners, realizing that condition, have squeezed the people almost beyond comprehension. At the same time the miners have been busy and periodical demands for increased wages have been heard. The result has been a general strike of 400,000 miners and the possibility of untold suffering by the people who are the victims of winter weather.

The latest break between the miners' representatives and Fuel Administrator Garfield will bring the people to a realization of what may be expected unless something is quickly done to relieve the situation. The courts enjoined the miners from striking but they did not pay much attention to the order. If the courts had mandated the mine owners to increase salaries the result would doubtless have been the same.

With this condition an admitted fact, it is time for both sides to get down to business and agree on some sort of a settlement. It has got to be done. The fellow who buys coal is

MEDIATOR CELEBRATES SIXTEENTH BIRTHDAY
All Has Not Been Roses But Healthy Little Weekly Still in Business.

With this issue of The Mediator the paper starts its sixteenth year of existence. Started by Arthur Pew wife the first issue dated December 1, 1893, it was operated by him for eleven years, when it came under the leadership of the present owner. All has not been roses for the paper at all times, but it has consistently stuck to the principle of standing for the truth. This policy has not always made friends, but as a general proposition it has made more friends than enemies. Toward the people who have read the paper so long the management has only the best of feeling. To the hundreds of business men who have liberally supported the business and the paper renews its allegiance.

The Yuletide season will soon be here, and for all the readers and supporters The Mediator, the editor takes advantage of this opportunity to express his thanks and a wish for a continuance of their prosperity.

"JUDGE" HALEY'S DEATH REPORTED TO FRIENDS

Report of the sudden death Tuesday of H. C. (Judge) Haley, in Kansas City, was a shock to his Omaha friends. His death was caused by heart disease at the Baltimore hotel in that city.

Haley lived in Omaha for many years and was well known to the sporting fraternity. With Mrs. Haley he resided at the Sanford hotel several years. He left here about a year ago. He took a lively interest in all kinds of sports and missed very few good things in the sport line. Several of his former Omaha friends attended the funeral.

Doings In Omaha Fifty Years Ago

Joe Hummel denied that he was interested in the controversy over the coal strike. He laid in his coal stock early.

Frank Williams' visit to St. Paul combined business and pleasure. He said there were a lot of cheap breweries for sale there.

John Corby was still entertaining friends on South Tenth street. He was a great entertainer in his time.

Fred Myers was still spreading the old stuff about his Oklahoma oil holdings. Jack Lewis advised his friends to not take Fred seriously.

Brian Holmes was thinking of trading off his billiard parlor for a baseball club. He was always doing some crazy thing.

Joe Bickler nearly lost his happy home because he visited a local burlesque theater. Joe said he had a right to "look 'em over" once in a while.

Is Ringer an Asset or Liability?

The good people of Omaha, as a whole, are out for the best that can be had for the money. Eighteen months ago they elected J. Dean Ringer to the office of city commissioner. Now they are wondering if it was a good investment. They are wondering whether or not they did not purchase a liability instead of an asset.

It is of no great concern to Omaha citizens, taxpayers in particular, who is selected for any political position, except as he turns out to be a good thing or a bad thing. It is said that the voters decided to vote for anybody in order to have a change. That may be true. But the general feeling is that they got the worst of it when they got Mr. Ringer.

The big class that opposed Ringer have not been saying much since he went into office. The criticism has come, almost exclusively, from the people who elected Ringer to office. Those who opposed him were generally men of experience in politics, in good citizenship and in what was best for the welfare of the city. When they were defeated they did not pursue the matter, but let matters pursue their regular course.

The results have been so conclusive that these men do not need anybody to speak for them. Omaha today is working under the poorest system of government that has been here since it became a metropolitan city. It has been turned over to a combination of political renegades that have well nigh wrecked the good things that the city has always stood for. Even Mayor Smith, always respected as a leading citizen of the city, has gone on record as saying that he is through. Smith partisans had hoped to make of him a gubernatorial candidate, but he has put an end to their ambitions.

Every good citizen stands for real reform. The best interests of business and better citizenship demand that only the best in government be had. The present administration has been an utter failure.

Right-minded Omahans will take cognizance of present conditions and learn a lesson in municipal government. Meanwhile, they should do the best they can until necessary changes can be made and the system of bolshevism abolished.

NEBRASKA WOMEN WILL VOTE FOR PRESIDENT
May Participate in Both Primaries and Regular Election in Next Campaign.

Nebraska women will have an opportunity to say something about who shall be president and vice president next time. They will be permitted to vote both in the primary and regular elections. They will not, however, vote on state officers and that is what a lot of them are kicking about.

Although the last legislature was willing to let the women in on the franchise, there was a disposition to have their action sent to a referendum. The question of full franchise is still pending, but the women are preparing to continue the fight until they get what they have started after, they say.

The big campaign next year ought to be a good one and the women want to get in on it. It is even possible they may soon be heard over heels in city politics and then things ought to be good. It is said several of our husky ladies are already considering making application for places on the police force, and it is suggested they could greatly improve the force that Mr. Ringer has enlisted in the work.

YEAGER'S PRESCRIPTION FOR GETTING ON FORCE

George Yeager, our well known real estate merchant on North Sixteenth street, has given a prescription for the use of men who wish to get onto the police force. He suggests that they join Mr. Ringer's church, tell Mr. Ringer they are opposed to Tom Donahue and also join his secret society. George has been a pretty good observer and he probably knows what he is talking about.

Speaking of the matter he said: "I moralizing that fine body of men at once when he went into office. Our people know what the result has been. Many large papers in the country are citing the Omaha administration as what it means to demoralize a city by 'reforming it,' as they call it. Many leading Omaha business and professional men have been looking over the situation here with skepticism. Many of those who believed a change was necessary when they voted into office the present majority of city commissioners are becoming worried and feel that they jumped from bad to worse, so far as police matters are concerned.

Refusal of the city commissioners to investigate internal police affairs has not created a very good feeling generally. Just what will be the governor's next step is not known, but it is believed every effort will be made by the majority of the city commissioners to whitewash themselves by refusing to make any further investigation. Commissioner Ore is said to gation.

"They have heard of how all the old patrolmen have been forced to get out and get out by Mr. Ringer. They thought Omaha was easy picking and have just piled into the city in droves. Ringer is putting on a lot of novices. Although the force of patrolmen has been almost doubled during the last month, conditions are even worse than they were before the riot and lynching."

This feeling appears to be pretty general. Commissioner Ore is said to gation.

OFFICER SAMARDICK'S TACTICS SHOWN UP IN COURT PROCEEDING

North Side Monitor Sends Distress Call to Morals Squad—Samardick Rebuked for Acting Without Search Warrant—Arrests Whole Household and the Baby.

The dismissal in police court last Monday morning of Mrs. Joseph Samardick and three of her friends, who had been arrested the preceding Saturday night by Officer Samardick brought out some remarkable facts about Samardick's system and also about George Blanchard and his family, who are neighbors of Buckley.

Mr. Buckley himself, who is a well known business man, was away from home during the evening. Some friends of the family from the country called and were having a pleasant evening. The Buckleys recently purchased the property at Twenty-ninth and Ames avenue. The Blanchards apparently were not pleased with the sale of the property and at once started trouble for the Buckleys.

Saturday evening a report was received at the police station that there was a "trough house" or something of that sort at Twenty-ninth and Ames avenue. Samardick rushed to the place with two or three men. He got charged all the persons who had been picked up by the blameless officer. It was said suits are to be started against the Buckley home. Supper was just over and the family was swapping stories about old times with their neighbors.

Samardick went to the front door and began kicking at it, at the same time threatening to kick it in. Mrs. Buckley went to the door and in rushed four officers, headed by Samardick. He at once began to make insulting remarks and to search the premises. Mrs. Buckley thought they were hold-up men, because they

The Blanchards live at 2909 Ames avenue and, according to neighbors, have attempted to run the whole. Continued on Page Two.

POLICE NOVICES INCREASED DAILY

City Becomes Harbor of Refuge for Crooks From Entire Country When They Learn How Easy They Can Get Away With Their Work—No Relief in Sight.

With a carnival of crime at its height Omaha people are daily becoming victims of a band of thieves and crooks who have gathered in the city with the knowledge that the enforcement police has become demoralized since the occupation of the present city administration. The records have put a big force on duty to run down a few persons who may find it possible to secure a bottle of bootleg booze when they ought to be protecting victims of robbery.

The handling of the illegal sale of a little whisky has become a matter for the government to worry about. Truth is, there is so idle whisky left in Nebraska and other dry states that the result of these holdups and robberies. One man who recently lost about $7,000 in gems and money made an effort to secure some information about the cause of the epidemic. He learned that the crooks of the country had flocked to Omaha on hearing of the demoralized condition of the police force.

Speaking of the matter he said: "I moralizing that fine body of men at once when he went into office. Our people know what the result has been. ## COAL SITUATION VERY GRAVE

Unless the men who are charged with the settlement of the coal strike reach some basis for a settlement of that wage controversy it is hard to imagine how serious the coal shortage may become. Already the entire country is hard hit and another two weeks of idleness of the miners will mean much suffering for thousands of families throughout the country.

The bantering we hear from both sides at Washington is becoming disgusting to the people who want to be assured that they are not going to freeze to death this winter. The report that the mine owners are making profits of from 200 to 3,000 per cent has not been denied seriously. If it is true there is no reason why this strike should not be settled in a day. The mine owners are entitled to their profits, but the coal supply question is one in which every man, woman and child is interested.

It appears that in the past no effort has been made to store coal and mine owners have managed to hold down the supply as much as possible. The result has been that they were able to increase prices almost at will. The question of whether or not Uncle Sam shall step in and operate the coal mines is becoming a serious one.

It should be understood, however, that the miners themselves have an immense responsibility in this matter and their leaders will do well to take cognizance of that fact. The mines have got to be worked, even if the government itself is forced to undertake starting them. The present condition cannot exist for any great length of time.

Just now there is an inclination to insert politics into the coal strike situation. Those who are responsible for that kind of business are going to be the losers. At best the coal situation is reached at the end of the winter, even though a settlement is reached at once. Politicians will do well to forget their particular line of business for a while and help get the wheels turning regularly.

ANGELES, THE REBEL

Despite the fact that Felipe Angeles was forced to face a firing squad and died with the mark of a rebel on his record, history will grant to him a place which will be an honor to his name rather than a disgrace.

This great Mexican soldier, one of the greatest that country ever produced, has not been an enemy of government. On the other hand he has stood for everything that good government stands for. In some ways he may be considered as having been associated with men like Villa, known only for his banditry. It is not a matter of record, however, that he ever shared in the glut of that bandit, and his connection with the famous Villa was made with a view to civilizing even Villahimself.

He was reared under the regime of President Diaz and excelled in military affairs, which he made his life work. When the Mexican country fell into the hands of irresponsible men who sought power for themselves and cared nothing for the rank and file, Angeles began his revolution. He wanted to see Mexico a great country, properly governed and its great resources developed but not sacrificed to greed.

Our own government is now having its troubles with the Carranza government, to which Felipe Angeles was opposed. He was shot as a traitor, but history will give him credit for being honest in his attempts to put the Mexican government on a higher basis.

Recent dispatches say that Angeles hoped that the United States would take steps which would force the Carranza regime out of office. Perhaps his efforts on these lines had much to do with him being sent to the wall where he faced the firing squad. In reality, the death of Angeles will possibly become an epoch-making period during which his government shall come into a stable form and its great resources developed. The Mexican situation is the biggest thing the United States has to deal with and in many respects our sympathy was with the very things for which Angeles gave up his life.

PRESIDENTIAL BOOMS STARTING

The business of becoming a presidential candidate is booming just now and a lot of new recruits are getting into it. The next presidential campaign will be fought out on war issues. The republicans will attempt to show up the democrats and charge them with making a poor job of the war. The democrats, on the other hand, will charge the republicans with killing the possibility of a league of nations and with being responsible for President Wilson failing to accomplish things for the United States that he started out to get.

The republicans believe it is going to be a republican year. With that thought in mind they are starting early to get into line with the winning candidate. Governor Lowden of Illinois is getting an early start. In Omaha a Lowden club has been started, with a bunch of young and ambitious republicans trying to get on the inside track.

Up in South Dakota a Leonard Wood movement has received an early start. Just what excuse there is for making General Wood president of the United States does not appear on the surface at this time. He was a ranking army officer when the war started, but Pershing was sent to Europe to lick the Huns. He came out to Omaha recently, but the things he did here did not greatly impress republican party leaders who are interested in presidential possibilities. Ohio has a governor, who is being touted for the republican presidential nomination. Some of the Atlantic states expect to produce some presidential timber soon.

The democrats are not saying much. It would take a wild guess to even imagine who will be the next democratic candidate for president. Maybe Bryan has ambitions; He has always been known as a perpetual candidate. Wear the democrats may nominate Pershing, if he would stand for it. He ought to be a strong candidate. Some new things will be heard from him in the near future, it is said.

neighborhood. At a gathering of neighbors in a local grocery store an indignation meeting was held following the arrests and the Blanchardis came in for a scolding.

The filthy talk of Samardick to the women can not be put into print. He threatened Mrs. Buckley, although she held her year-old babe in her arms while she sought an explanation of the officers' presence. "Get up those stairs before I kick you — all the way up," he shouted at her.

The house was thoroughly searched but no liquor was found. This did not prevent the family and visitors from being taken to the station, however. Although Samardick could show no incriminating evidence, he attempted by recrimination to induce the court to find them guilty. It is said more is to be heard of the matter in the near future.

GENERAL PUBLIC BECOMES VICTIM OF MINERS' STRIKE EMBROGGLIO

vict's would doubtless bring matters to a head in short order.

The feeling is pretty general that upon half-wa ypoint must be agreed upon and that pretty quickly. Both sides should be willing to give and take. Mr. Garfield and President Lewis in all probability have their winter's supply of coal laid in and their families will not have to suffer from the cold. But there are thousands of persons in every large city who are not so fortunate.

It is just such arbitrary action as appears to be the spirit of both sides to this controversy that wrecks nations and any political party responsible for furthering this business might as well get of the earth.

DR. WILLIS VICTIM OF INFLUENZA AND IS DEAD

Influenza took Dr. B. G. Willis as a victim during the week. Willis was only 38 years old and until stricken a year ago with the disease had always been a husky fellow. He never recovered fully and another attack recently ended in his death this week. All that is necessary, it is said, is to have the price of a county or something like that, and you are given a permit to do business all over the world. Many country visitors are said to have recently invested their money in this blue sky stuff, but so far as 2008 Cuming street, where he had his office. He was a prominent member paid on the investments.

Wages paid telephone employees and the cost of materials to keep up the telephone, have increased rapidly the last few years.

To furnish satisfactory telephone service makes it necessary to charge higher rates now than when expenses were much lower.

Telephone rates have advanced much less than the cost of almost anything else.

SWATTING THE STOCK SWINDLERS' MOVEMENT

Many Organizations are Backing the Campaign of Protection to Holders of Government Securities.

Business men's associations, women's federations, many labor unions and lodges in this district are backing the campaign of the savings division of the treasury department against phony promotion who are attempting to swindle investors into exchanging Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps for wildcat stocks. Official recognition of the existence of this evil has been expressed in Denver, Kansas City and several other cities by the enactment of laws providing severe punishment for traffickers in these securities.

The Business Men's Anti-Stock Swindling League has taken up the fight and is using every means available of combating fraudulent promotion. It is also announced that the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, organized to promote honest advertising and to put an end to swindling and fake advertisements, has got into the game and is lending its advice and its influence in this work.

These associations and organizations take the position that continued exploitation by fraudulent stock promoters tends to impoverish the people, impair their buying power, destroy their confidence in business and create a prejudice against all who represent invested capital.

SIM PLISSITY SAYS

Every school, college and university in the country teaches how to make money, but they ain't a darn one of 'em says anything about how to keep a dollar when you get it.

Hank Edgemoor, who's a house builder an' ought to know, says he's never yet seen a man get to the top of a ladder without 'standin' from somewhere near the bottom. He says the surest way to be a War Savings Stamp is to be a Thrift Stamp first.

"Early to bed an' early to rise" never'll do nothing for a man unless he skrimishes around a little while he's up.

Tom Edison has invented a lot of useful things but he ain't never found anything to make takin' good advice automatic or compulsory.

Bill Hinkley's boy what's just out of college says he ain't goin' to take no little job. The funeral dirge ain't original with him. I know men what's been singin' it for twenty-five years.

That hi-frutin' campaign for speakin' pure English may be purty good, but I find that boss sense will beat the high cost o' livin' quicker'n anything else.

The government savings securities pays 4 1/2 per cent per year, and the promoters' stock pays 8 per cent perhaps, which is some difference if you like to eat three times a day.

A Thrift Stamp a day'll keep the wolf away.

POLITICAL ENEMIES OF SHERIFF CLARK ACTIVE

The death of Louis Wineberg, sent to the county jail in connection with the rioting and lynching of September 28, was made the subject for an attack on Sheriff Clark by the World-Herald. That paper printed the young man's picture and intimated that his confinement in jail was the cause of his death.

The sheriff did not send the boy to jail. He was sent there by the authorities who caused his arrest. He received the same treatment that all prisoners are given. The Douglas county jail is not a very comfortable place for anybody to reside but the sheriff can not extend particular favors to any inmate of the place.

When young Wineberg became ill he was given prompt treatment by the physician who attends all county prisoners.

INTER-CHURCH WORLD MOVEMENT AT LINCOLN

Representative Protestant clergymen and laymen of Nebraska will meet in Lincoln December 3, 4 and 5 to attend a three-day state training conference of the Interchurch World Movement of North America. The sessions will be held in the First Presbyterian church. The delegates, several hundred in number and members of the leading evangelical denominations, will be given an intensive training in the purpose and program of the Interchurch World Movement to fit them for leading similar training schools later in their home countries. They also will discuss what the relation of the churches should be to the religious, social and economic problems of the day.

A similar conference will be held in December in every state in the union, conferences being held in sixty-six American centers.

At the sessions, special interest will center in a discussion of the industrial situation and the racial, Americanization and other live issues. The conference leaders will be a team of six nationally known clergymen and laymen.

Ivory Mats.

There are but three mats of ivory in existence. The largest one measures 8 by 4 feet; and although made in the north of India, has a Greek design for a border. It is used only on state occasions, like the signing of important state documents. The cost of this precious mat was almost incalculable, for more than 6,400 pounds of pure ivory were used in its construction. Only the finest and most flexible strips of the material could be used and the mat is like the finest work in fabric.

BOYD THEATER.

"The Bird of Paradise."

One of the many charms to be found in "The Bird of Paradise," Richard Walton Tully's play of life in the Hawaiian Islands, which comes to the Boyd theater for the week commencing Sunday, November 30, is the manner in which he handles the religious beliefs and superstitions of the native Kanaka. To deal sympathetically with strange things of this sort, a writer has to comprehend the viewpoint and reasoning of the peoples whom he seeks to portray.

From boyhood Mr. Tully dreamed of the islands, their strange, lovable, gentle inhabitants. The customs, quaint, even in the days of Captain Cook, to white eyes and understanding. And they have not changed since. Iola, save on the surface. Kanakoonish is still rampant; Tab his sacred Pale still claims her victims despite the efforts of the missionaries and the insular government.

Any person who knows native Hawaiian life below the surface knows that these things always have and always will exist. It takes ages to change the temperament of a race.

Compassionate understanding is what has made "The Bird of Paradise" one of the great successes of the past decade. In these days of ephemeral existence of plays, the perennial youth of "The Bird of Paradise," now in its ninth successful season, speaks volumes for the lasting merit of Mr. Tully's remarkable drama.

Oliver Morosco this season has selected Florence Rockwell to play the role of Iolana, the lovable Hawaiian princess, every portrayal of which has reached stardom via this part.

AT THE BRANDEIS.

"The Velvet Lady," Klav & Erlanger's latest musical comedy production, "The Velvet Lady," of which the magazines have had much to say in praise, comes to the Brandeis theater four nights beginning Sunday, November 30. Owing to the magnitude of the production, there will be no matinee.

"The Velvet Lady" is one of the most important bookings of the season at the Brandeis. It comes to Omaha practically new, having been presented in but five cities in all previously, including a whole season in New York and four weeks at the Colonial theater, Chicago. The lyrics were written by Henry Blossom, to which Victor Herbert has set one of his most entrancing scores. Included in the cast are George O'Hamer, Florrie Millership, Elaine Amt, Al Gerrard and Solly Ward.

"Kiss Me Again."

That ever popular favorite, Fredrick V. Bowers, will be seen at the Brandeis theater three days, commencing Thursday, in his latest musical comedy hit, "Kiss Me Again." The book was written by Walter Hemmingsway and Arthur J. Lamb, who also wrote the lyrics. The music setting has been provided by Mr. Bowers. Alma Youlin and a cast of recognized performers appear in support of Mr. Bowers, and there is a chorus which, in beauty and talent, is all that a musical production could hope to exact. The show has been produced on a scale of beauty and lavishment which makes it a show of unusual class and distinction.

Mitzi is Coming.

A most unique figure on the modern stage is Mitzi, the one star famed of today and easily remembered as the flashing figure of "Sari" and "Pom Pom." Her unpronounceable last name has been dropped in the interest of the throats of theatergoers and Mitzi is considered enough as there is likely to be but one.

She will come to the Brandeis theater three days—December 11, 12, 13—in Henry W. Savage's gay musical play, "Head Over Heels," and that was so much praised during its long runs in Boston, New York and Chicago last season.

"A Prince There Was."

George M. Cohan's latest comedy, "A Prince There Was," Cohanized from the novel, "Enchanted Hearts," by Darragh Aldrich, will be the attraction at the Brandeis theater soon. This comedy had long runs in both New York and Chicago and has been acclaimed by the critics as one of the brightest and most up-to-date productions in the history of the theater. America's own young actor and playwright.

"HALF-PORTION" BOBBY

BARRY AT GAYETY
What is considered one of the premier presentations of the burlesque season at the popular Gayety theater will be the advent at that house of "The Maids of America" company next week, beginning with the matinee performance on Saturday, November 29. The company is presenting a two-act musical comedy entitled "Without Rhyme or Reason," from the pen of William K. Wells, the well-known comedian-author. The books, lyrics and music of the piece is entirely new this season and the presentation here takes on the appearance of a genuine first night for those who are followers of the burlesque form of entertainment.

The managerial sponsors for "The Maids of America" have gathered a pre-eminent company of singers, comedians and dancers for the presentation of this season's offering. Bobby Barry and George Leon, both capable laugh-producing comedians, head the organization, and Florence Rother, who has been appearing in musical comedies for several seasons, is the prima donna of the company. The petite and charming Jane Mae is entrusted with the soprano role.

Travesty, burlesque, comedy and song are the keynote of the performance which "The Maids of America" are presenting. The first act has as its opening scene "Jazzonia," a broad travesty on the reigning craze for jazz entertainment which has not only swept this country but which now holds London in its throes; "The First National Bank of Laughland," where the small change of nickers are changed into the big bills of laughter, and also a "Melo-Jazz-Matic Play," a burlesque of the melodrama of a decade ago, delivered in ragtime.

The second act is also replete with surprises and one of its most spectacular scenes is a reproduction of a Slave Mart of the Orient. A Fashion Show, with ten stunning models displaying the latest creations of London, Paris and New York, is a sartorial treat that should appeal to the discriminating theatergoers.

Ladies' dime matinee at 2:15 daily, all week starting Monday. Sunday's matinee starts at 3:00.

EMPRESS ATTRACTIONS.

One of the featured acts of the new show opening at the Empress today, will be the dramatic sketch, "In the Dark," written by Mack Esplan. Conceded to be one of the most cleverly constructed melodramatic sketches ever conceived, "In the Dark" is a playlet of unusual situations. The plot deals with the murder of a guest at a hotel and the way in which circumstantial evidence may convict anyone within reach. Six excellent acting people keep the audience spellbound during the unraveling of the plot.

Another featured act will be the spectacular comedy with music offering of Arthur La Vine & Company. The scenic investiture is most elaborate, one set depicting that famous seaside resort, Coney Island, showing all the prominent features of the island. The playlet is filled with laughs, the comedy is plentiful and the thoroughly competent cast promises amusement and entertainment aplenty.

Jeanne Boydell, the comedienne, will offer a clever bit consisting of impersonations and imitations. Character songs and stories, quaint, original and new, will also be featured.

Wright and Davis have a delightful singing, talking and dancing number. It is so arranged as to give these artists every opportunity for a perfect display of their remarkable talents. Both have pleasing voices and well-chosen songs, adapted to the various situations.

The photoplay attraction for the first half of the week will be "Lost Money," featuring Madeline Travers. Advance reports of this picture indicate an unusual story of a fight for love and money in the African diamond fields.

ORPHEUM OFFERINGS.

Madam Ellis comes to the Orpheum next week as one of the stellar attractions. Whether her power is thought transference or occult art or something else, it is said. She will astonish you, it is said. She will call your name, reveal your thoughts and answer your questions. She appears on the stage in evening gown and does her work in a simple and straightforward manner. Her act is burlesqued and burlesqued which anticipates the future. "Visions of 1909," it is called, and it is being cleverly presented by Percy Bronson and Whinnie Baldwin. The story is told, for the most part, by songs, the lyrics of which were written by Harry Williams and the music was composed by N. Y. K. The piece is a good picture of the modes of dress and the present-day garments and woman has the power that man now possesses. The stars were formerly identified with "So Long, Letty."

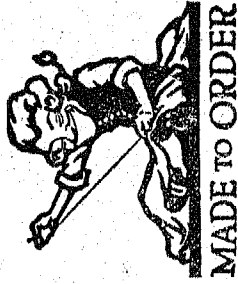

One of the novelties produced by Billie Burke is called "Tango Shoes." The shoes in this act are supposed to be a mechanical contrivance. When worn by a woman, they make her a woman, the wearer of the footwear instantly becomes a clever dancer. This offering will be one of the featured acts.

Ivan Bankoff is to appear with his excellent company in an offering called "The Dancing Master." This attraction is a verisimilitude act attractively staged. It is to be one of the featured parts of the bill. Mr. Bank-

Koff is a Russian dancer who is recognized as one of the most artistic performers ever to appear on the Orpheum stage.

A musical skit, "The Subject," is to be presented by Frank Burt and Myrtle Rosedale. The duo of performers bring finesse to their polite manner of entertainment.

Martelle, an impersonator of women and girls. He is the one who succeeded John Flinque in "The Fascinating Widow." In his vaudeville act will be contributed by the Melotte duo in an offering called "A Night Out."
