NEW ANGLE APPEAR IN ORSCHEL DIVORCE

Daddy Arrives in City to Have Suit Delayed for Few Months

PRINCIPALS HAVE MUTUAL FEELING

Live Wire Wife Reads Riot Act to Recreant Huband at West Center Street Road House—Young Orschel Said to Have Many "Affairs"

Recent developments in the affairs of H. M. Orschel and his wife, who were given considerable publicity by Omaha newspapers some time ago, add considerable interest to the story told at that time. It was stated that Orschel and his wife sat down to dinner at their home and quietly discussed their family relations and mutually agreed to a divorce petition. It seems this "agreement" came after an affair between the pair that did not get into print at that time. Mrs. Orschel is credited with keeping a weather eye on doings of her husband and also with keeping in touch with what goes on around town. She is said to have experienced touches of real life in the past and found it easy to keep in touch with little affairs in which her husband cut quite a figure.

According to information available, this roofing expert had a few "Theda Baras" of his own around Omaha, and divided his attention between them. With this condition being flaunted in the face of Mrs. Orschel some time ago, she is said to have made a few investigations of her own. She kept a pretty close watch on hubby's affairs, it is said, and followed him to a West Center street resort one evening.

When the wife reached the Center street place she found her husband there enjoying dinner and other things with a manicurist who formerly had an office in a downtown building. The enraged wife called the husband outside where she read the riot act to him and told him a few things about what she thought of him and his manicurist.

The result of the whole thing was the agreement by which the divorce suit was filed. It had been expected there would be a property division and that the suit would not require any serious legal action. But Herbert's daddy came to Omaha to look matters over. The Orschel fortune is said to be a considerable one and daddy was not very crazy about it being divided. The divorce suit was temporarily called off. In fact, it is stated, it has been mutually agreed to let the divorce remain in status quo for six months.

It appears that, for monetary reasons, Daddy Orschel has managed to secure the postponement and hopes to have matters so arranged within six months that a monetary division will not be necessary. Meanwhile, Mrs. Orschel is said to be an easy victim of the talk of those who are interested in disposing of her without having to meet any financial obligations that might arise as a result of a divorce proceeding.

Out on Sherman avenue, ensconced in an apartment house, lives little "Don," described as an entrancing bit of feminine humanity, with whom Herb Orschel is said to be enamored. Bad telephone connections recently

FIREMAN BLAZEK'S FRIENDS MINDFUL OF HIS SERVICE

Friends of the family of Fireman Blazek and of the firemen generally are showing their appreciation of the work of Omaha fire laddies by raising a fund for the family of the fireman who lost his life in a fire this week. This is the spirit that should prevail at all times.

Most of our people see firemen only at loafing times and do not realize that they hold their lives at stake every minute they are on duty. Blazek went to his death in the line of duty, as many other firemen have gone. It is a very proper thing that Omaha people should remember his family in a substantial manner.

ORPHEUM GARDEN AGAIN OPEN FOR OMAHA PEOPLE

The Orpheum Garden, Harney street recreation resort, will be open for business Saturday night. Peter Loch and his smile, all the music, dancing, soft drinks and luncheon will be on tap from the first sound of the bell and it will be better than ever this year.

Loch has been having the Garden cleaned up and put in first-class condition. The floor will be better than ever for dancers and the music will be quite up to the Orpheum Garden standard.

SKINNER AFFAIR IS CAUSING MUCH TALK

An accident near Dennison, Ia., when a train hit Claude Skinner's automobile, is causing a lot of talk around town. Riding with Claude was Grace Kelly, an Omaha stenographer, who was also a passenger in the car. Claude Skinner is a married man with a fine collection of children about grown up. His wife says, "Let someone else make the explanations."

Skinner says Miss Kelly was formerly his stenographer and that when he drove to Carroll, Ia., on business, he found her there on a visit. According to his story, he invited her to ride home with him and the accident followed.

From all reports, neither Skinner nor the young lady were dangerously injured.

Details of who was driving the car at the time of the accident, if anybody, are not available. Lots of funny things happen these days.

GRACE BALLARD TO BE OUSTED FROM POSITION

Grace Ballard, county attorney of Washington county, will be ousted from office if the Blair leaders have their way. Grace tried to start something about the "mystery girl" whose body was found near Omaha. She is charged with leniency toward Blair bootleggers.

Miss Ballard's trouble gives an inkling into what may be expected with women in office. It is not known how the bootleggers secured so much influence with Miss Ballard, if the allegations are true, but the affair shows that women in politics are not much different from men.

Miss Ballard is a republican and is serving her first term as county attorney. She says she will lick them all before she finishes with them.

Doings In Omaha Fifty Years Ago

John Klauk was telling a lot of North Twenty-fourth street people that he owned the whole north end of town. He was always great for the big talk.

Formal denial was made of the statement that Henry Munder was a spaghetti eater.

Charles Schneckenberger was still able to operate his Ford car and visit town regularly. He owned a big farm.

Some of the village cutups were preparing to make visits to Jim Hanley and tell him their troubles.

The election was very satisfactory to Si Colwell, who never was known to kick about anything.

Gus Romstedt entertained visitors during the week. His wife was still keeping an eye on him.

A "call of the wild" came to Mr. E. B. Demerest, one of our fellow townsmen, but he declined to celebrate.

Al Hastings, North Platte promoter, threatened to invade Omaha. Some of his friends gave him a friendly warning.

Charlie McCune, with offices in the federal building, had this to say about the election: "Some of us will have to go to work again."

Omaha Judiciary Is Not So Worse

As a general proposition, and with one possible exception, the judiciary election in Douglas county will be pretty satisfactory. The district court will have two new faces, Judges Fitzgerald and Day, and the police bench will have one new judge, Henry W. Dunn.

There was a determined opposition to Judge Charles Foster for re-election as police judge but the vote that would usually have gone against him was divided between two other candidates which made it comparatively easy for Foster, although he ran far behind Henry Dunn in the voting.

One victory of which Omaha people of all classes may be proud was the election of James H. Fitzgerald as district judge. He was well up in the voting, despite the fact that he has always been a democrat and this was generally a republican victory. He has been very popular in Omaha and his election was not a surprise to anybody who has been watching the judiciary contest.

The selection of Henry W. Dunn as a police judge was equally popular with Omahans. Dunn was at one time chief of police of the city. He has had more experience with police cases of all kinds than any other man in Omaha. He may be depended on to give a good account of himself as police judge, just as he has given a good account of himself in every other activity in which he has been engaged. Incidentally, Dunn was chief of police when the present city administration came into power. He resigned, as he stated at the time, on account of ill health. In fact, however, it is generally believed he resigned to avoid friction with the incoming administration. His selection as a police judge is a severe rebuke to Commissioner Ringer and his followers and close associates.

It is known that both Fitzgerald and Dunn were elected to their new positions despite strong opposition of the Ringer crowd, and their election is considered a forecast of what may be expected at the spring election when seven city commissioners will be elected.

COUNTRY DECLARES FOR REPUBLICANISM

Kaiser Bill Slated for Important Position Over Here

JUDGE FITZGERALD ONLY DEMOCRAT

Hard to Find Anybody Who Will Admit He is Democrat—Even "Solid South" Shows Republican Gains—Smith Wins in Spite of Yeager

If any Nebraskans voted the democratic ticket last Tuesday it was hardly noticeable. The same is true all over the country and the manner in which Senator Harding showed up the old timers in politics was worth the money. In Nebraska only one out of about 150 members of the lower legislative house has been elected, and he beat Charley Wooster out at Central City. Wooster used to be a democrat and a populist; but this year he ran on the nonpartisan ticket and was scalped by a democrat.

All of the big newspapers are trying to make explanations of how the country came to go so overwhelmingly republican, but very few of them will admit the truth. From the inside it has been learned that a lot of Germans voted for Harding and dispatches from Berlin indicate that German politicians, including Von Bernstorff, former ambassador to this country, will form the next American cabinet.

But the republicans made it a good one while they were at it and the country has been saved, which is enough. We heard a lot of funny things during the campaign, including a story about a "whispering campaign." That story came near causing a lot of trouble, too.

In Douglas county, where everybody living in Omaha cast his or her vote, the democrats were given the cleaning of their lives. Judge J. M. Fitzgerald was the only democrat of consequence to win, and he was running on a nonpartisan ticket. About everybody who voted for Fitzgerald knew he was a democrat, but it was simply impossible to stop him.

Some people say the Irish had a big hand in the republican landslide. Be that as it may, it is apparent that most of the Americans of Irish extraction are pretty well satisfied and it will be interesting to watch Senator Harding, once he gets into the White House, order Johnny Bull to free Ireland, which he probably will do as quick as Harding gives the order.

Woodrow Wilson has not been on the job for a long time and from all indications he is off of it for all time to come. He stuck around for eight years and temporarily kept the kaiser from running America, but if all reports are true, Kaiser Bill will soon be tendered an important position as spokesman for and generalissimo of the German section of the American republic. That is the way it should be, because somebody must run America, especially that portion of our people that have not yet become Americanized.

GENERAL WAGE REDUCTION FOR ALL CLASSES OF LABOR BEING PLANNED

First Steps Already Taken in Movement to Lower Prices and Battle Expected to Continue—Omaha Will See First Big Contests Next Spring

A general movement for the reduction of wages has commenced all over the country, and it is stated that institutions employing large numbers of men and women already have completed plans for a reduction all along the line. The railroads are among those who will lead the movement, although all other lines have taken steps to join in at once.

Organized and unorganized labor alike are slated as victims of the new conditions. Over at Waterloo, Ia., 200 men were discharged peremptorily Thursday by one of the railroads, the statement being made that lack of business was the reason. They were shop men and every railroad shop in the country is at present busier than at any time in the history of the country.

Textile and other big eastern factories are preparing to cut down their output nearly one-half, it is stated, and it is estimated that nearly a million men and women will be without employment in the near future.

Those who have made a study of conditions say that the present high wage is the cause of increased living prices. Labor, on the other hand, says commodity prices must come down before wages can be reduced. But the scale is expected to be lowered all along the line in the near future. There has been no time in the history of the world when the working classes have been recipients of the present high wage and at no time have they enjoyed so much prosperity.

By many it is said that politics will figure decidedly in the coming reduction of wages, but that is a matter that labor leaders decline to discuss. The recent election proved that a change was demanded, and labor had the votes. This has left the very general and perhaps proper impression that a reduction all along the line was expected by labor as well as by other classes.

To a certain extent high prices of labor and living were an issue in the election campaign the country has just passed through. For that reason it is pretty generally agreed that at least 75 per cent of the people favor a reduction of wages, as the newly elected leaders were admittedly favorable to a reduction.

In other words, a reconstruction campaign is now on and it should bring with it reductions of everything in which dollars and cents cut a figure. Union labor is said to be slated for the first battle and reports state that big employers in all lines have joined a combination to take a "fall" out of labor unions as well as to fight all attempts to secure new labor schedules in the future.

Locally, it is stated, the battle will not amount to much before next spring when it is expected to be in full swing before the first day of April, and that all contracts will be made on the basis of a lower wage.

UNION LABOR HEARINGS TO SEVERAL WESTERN CITIES INCLUDING OMAHA

Investigation in New York Brings Out Testimony that Bribes of Great Sums Paid to Leaders to Settle Labor Difficulties

Investigation of alleged "rakeoffs" taken by New York business agents is expected to spread to the west, where testimony may be taken before the affair finally ends, it is stated by employers who have been watching the affair.

In New York, where testimony has been taken, it has been shown that business agents collect many thousands of dollars from employers of labor in order that the employers may feel safe from strikes during the time they were performing tasks for which they have taken contracts.

Following the closing of the New York case, it is stated, Chicago is to be the scene of further hearing, with the investigation extending to western cities like Omaha, Kansas City and Denver.

A man named Robert P. Brindell is president of the building trades council in New York and evidence has been submitted that he accepted something like $20,000 in amounts running from $250 to $3,000. In some cases he accepted checks and these cancelled checks have turned up in the investigation against him.

In order to secure jobs and know that they would be permitted to go through with them without having fights with labor unions, it is charged, the contractors "dealt" with Brindell and paid him large sums. In one case a builder told of having trouble with union labor on his job. He laid down $500, he says, and work was started within three hours.

According to the testimony, labor unions themselves have not been responsible for the troubles, but all of the grief has come as a result of grafters being on the job and grabbing off big sums from contractors, with the understanding that they could control union labor. In one case a contractor told of paying a large sum for "dues and initiation" of men in his employ who did not belong to the union. The men whose dues were paid, it is stated, never knew anything about them being taken into a labor union. The money paid to the Brindell crowd, the witness testified, exceeded $1,000.

Omaha union labor leaders say they are not worried over an extension of the inquiry to this city. Contractors, however, it is said, have invited an investigation and the Business Men's association is given credit with being intensely interested in the outcome of New York hearing.

For the business agents it is said that labor unions cannot be successfully operated in large cities without a business agent, whose business it is to keep in close touch with conditions and keep their unions posted and also see that dues are promptly paid.

WEAKNESS OF McKELVIE

One of the features of Tuesday's election was the extreme weakness of Governor McKelvie, as compared with the other candidates on the state ticket. It is very plain that nothing but the landslide that occurred could have returned him to office. As it was, something like 100,000 republicans voted for his democratic opponent for the office of governor.

It should be remembered that McKelvie is on the job for another two years and that those who do not like him, even of his own party, must take the consequences. McKelvie has certain ideas of his own regarding state government and there is no reason to believe he will change them at this late hour. There is, however, a large number of wise heads going to the legislature, which ought to curb the governor's aspirations to be the whole state government of Nebraska.

Omaha has suffered from McKelvieism just as other parts of the state have suffered and it is now up to the Douglas county delegation to get busy at Lincoln this winter and prevent the disaster becoming worse.

COLOR QUESTION RAMPANT IN FLORIDA

Another disgraceful scene occurred this week, in which the colored race is given particular prominence. It was down near Orlando, Fla., where twelve persons lost their lives in an election race riot. A score of buildings in a negro settlement were burned and one negro was lynched.

It started, according to report, when a colored man was charged with attempting to vote illegally. That both sides had armed themselves for trouble is apparent, but the fact is plain that there was an organized attempt to prevent some of the colored population from voting in that section of the south.

With the extension of suffrage, new conditions have entered politics in all parts of the country and even the south will learn before very much longer that cannon will not rule in the elections.

The colored people, however, should use good judgment and leaders of that race will do well to insist on their associates following out the demands of law and order. From this distance nobody can tell what were the merits of the Orlando affair but it was a disgrace to both sides unless we miss our guess and all parties to it appear to have been looking for trouble.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION

Without even attempting to discuss reasons for Tuesday's landslide, one thing seems positive and that is that Mr. Wilson and his League of Nations proposition are very unpopular with the people. This paper has believed the League of Nations proposition, as constructed by Woodrow Wilson, was not a good thing. Of course Wilson himself was not a factor in the election and he is now out of politics for all time to come.

But the audacity of William J. Bryan and his criticisms since election day are worth reading. Bryan wants Wilson to resign and he wants a lot of other things. Just now Bryan is again flirting for public approval. He also says that the liquor question was one of the things that defeated Cox, to say nothing of a lack of organization. In fact, Bryan hints that if the democrats had permitted him to have his own way everything would have gone along fine and that they would have been successful.

There appears to be no doubt that the liquor question entered into the business to some extent and it is a safe bet that the republicans, when they come into power, will take some vigorous steps to reduce the amount of available moonshine whisky. But if they are wise they will hardly let Bryan dictate to them as to what they shall do. There will always be a certain amount of illegal liquor traffic, but as a general proposition the wet and dry issue is a dead one and there will be bigger things for Senator Harding to think about when he becomes president.

Business as a general proposition must get back to a normal basis and prices will have to return to their pre-war normality. Of course, labor will be among the commodities to be affected by the change, and those who have jobs will do well to stick to them as long as they can.

The boasts, however, of g. o. p. leaders, about the laboring man being forced to lick his employer's hand is poor business. That sort of a boast has already appeared in print. Good judgment and honest dealing will be necessary to secure a proper adjustment and the more common sense used by both sides will be the best for them.

HANLEY PREPARES BIG SURPRISE FOR OMAHANS

Prohibition Director Says He Will Ask for Jail Sentences for Moonshiners Convicted in Federal Court.

James Hanley, prohibition director for this federal district, is preparing to make it as warm as possible for violators of the national prohibition law. He says that fines for these persons are only a license and that he will ask the federal courts to send all violators to jail if they are convicted. Hanley has been in conference with United States Attorney Tom Allen on the subject and believes he will be able to secure court action that will reduce the number of moonshine booze makers materially, to say nothing of the number of small bootleggers.

Down at the federal building there is a fine assortment of distilleries, punk booze and other things that are used by moonshiners. The federal grand jury, which meets next week, will have an opportunity to make an inspection of this assortment at close range.

Over in Iowa the federal court will begin business in Council Bluffs next week and the number of liquor violations billed for action there is a large one.

NEW ANGLES APPEAR IN ORSCHEL DIVORCE

are said to have caused several mix-ups and also to have resulted in some interesting conversations being overheard.

Herbert is said to also have a residence in the north end where he is temporarily located and where he can visit with friends freely. The Orschel plant has a branch in Des Moines, whether the proprietor is called frequently, and where he is said to have a number of friends.

Altogether the affair is creating intense interest in some branches of society and is attracting the attention of several members of the fair sex, who are beginning to wonder just where they are at.

When daddy came to Omaha he put a crimp in the arrangements of some of the parties interested in the whole affair, it is stated, but there are still several tangles that have to be straightened out. Just what the final outcome of the divorce suit is to be remains a matter for speculation, and the "aggrieved" wife is said to be trying to figure out just where she is going to land next spring.

Bill Bryan, who says he recently cast his first "silent vote." is also out with a statement, in which he says Woodrow Wilson was responsible for democratic defeat. He does not say so in so many words, but from all indications, Bryan himself voted the republican ticket this year. He should make an important addition to the republican party.

Laying jokes aside, however, the whole country was apparently pretty mad at President Wilson. Woodrow has never been a very prime favorite with some of his own party leaders and was probably responsible for a lot of republican votes being added to the big bunch that the old timers themselves cast. Like Grover Cleveland, he will get most of the credit for causing the democratic disaster, and since he is passing out of existence as a factor in American politics the democrats will not miss him much and the republicans have not gained much by his going.

In the local contest a lot of funny things happened. Jerry Howard, heretofore unbeatable, was cleaned up in easy style. Date Compton, county commissioner, received the licking of his life and a lot of his friends will be looking for new jobs after January 1. Bob Smith put the fixing to Peter Elsasser, despite opposition from many leading republicans, and made it a clean-cut victory, too. George Yeager, who led part of the opposition to Bob Smith, has several election bets to pay and the price of rattleware will be temporarily increased to meet this emergency.

Even southern states appear to have joined in the general demand for republican victory and Tennessee appears to have left the "solid south" and joined the happy throng of republican joy-makers. Several other southern states had close calls and in many of them republican congressmen were elected.

Incidentally, the democratic organization is pretty well shot up and it is going to take it quite a while to get back into action. Locally, this organization did not get very far and Douglas county democrats who heretofore have led the way in making a fight for victory were conspicuous for their absence at democratic headquarters.

It is going to be pretty hard to find anybody in this neck of the woods in the near future who will admit he has ever been a democrat, and from all indications the g. o. p. crowd will have everything their own way for a long time to come.

ORPHEUM OFFERINGS

Two headline acts, also two featured acts, will be included in the Orpheum bill for next week.

Emma Haig, who came into prominence with the Ziegfeld Follies, will present one of the stellar offerings, a skit called "Playtime," in which she is capably assisted by Richard W. Keene.

Another stellar offering is to be the new one-act comedy, "Ssh-h!" as presented by the clever comedian, Frank Wilcox, with the support of five carefully selected players.

The Primrose Four, harmony singers, are to be featured, as are also the two Swor Brothers, the amusing impersonators of the southern negro. An array of other excellent acts is also to have place on this exceptional bill.

In vaudeville Miss Haig has danced with various partners, including George White. She has kept herself a favorite with audiences not merely by her winsome graces, but by continually creating new dance numbers. As for Mr. Wilcox, he has appeared in a number of Broadway successes. Frenzied finance is the basis of the amusing comedy he is presenting over the Orpheum circuit. He is one of the most versatile actors appearing in vaudeville.

Van, Cantwell, Murphy and Gilmer make up the heavy weight vocalists who are called the Primrose Four. In addition to being gifted singers they are excellent entertainers.

The comedy of the Swor Brothers is from time to time interrupted by songs and by a bit of soft-shoe dancing. Their portrayals of the colored man are extremely humorous.

William Brack and the six other Bracks are considered astonishing gymnasts. The offering is a surprising combination of athletics and eccentricities.

"Love's Follies" will be presented by the Werner and Amoros Trio. Their act is chiefly a jugglery performance. Good music and some clever acting are other elements of what they contribute.

Coley and Jaxon present a skit called "The Minstrel and the Maid." The introduction of comedy songs gives this offering its particular merit. The skit is also exceptionally laughable.

The wit of newspaper paragraphers will flash upon the screen in "Topics of the Day," and news events will be pictured with animated photography by Kinograms.

MOLLIE WILLIAMS' SHOW COMING TO GAYETY

There are three distinct novelties offered by Mollie Williams' Greatest Show, that starts a week's engagement at the Gayety theatre Saturday matinee. Two newly written satires, said to be of a laughable order, entitled "Barrelled Up" and "The Midnight Colics," by Alex. Rogers and C. Luckeyth Roberts. These two musical plays are new to burlesque patrons, interpolated with many pleasing musical numbers that are fresh and most appealing.

With ten or more principals breezing through their lines in a characterizing manner, and a typical Mollie Williams chorus, attired in novel dress designs, the audience is sure to fall into an imaginative mood and enjoy the antics of the various comedians, as well as the prepossessing and dashing air of the lady principals, among whom are Evelyn Ramsay, Incarnable MOLLIE WILLIAMS heading her own show at the popular Gayety twice daily all next week.

Beatrice Nash, Louise Worthington, Pep Bradford and the one and only Mollie Williams.

The comedy and straight entertainers are Teddy McNamara, Cy "Jazz" Plunkett, Billy Purcella, Frank Fanning and Don Trent.

Mollie Williams and company will be seen in a dramatic playlet entitled "The Unknown Law." This spot on the program promises to furnish many surprises, as well as much interest, as it contains many thrilling situations with a climax of most novel character. Miss Williams is well remembered as being a versatile young woman, having given a melodramatic act last year in her show, and that was a decided hit. Miss Williams has mounted "The Unknown Law" in a sumptuous manner and is the first producer to embrace dramatic sketches in her show on the burlesque wheel.

Ladies' dime matinee at 2:15 daily all week. The Sunday matinee starts at 3.

EMPRESS ATTRACTIONS

The Southern Harmony Four, a quartet of harmony singers who dispense melodies old and new, will prove a revelation to those who are fond of harmony singing. They headline the show opening at the Empress Sunday, and with harmony as the keynote and a selection of smart songs, promise some pleasing and unusual entertainment.

Sig Franz & Co. will introduce startling feats on the bicycle, comedy talk and excruciatingly funny antics in their offering, "Fun on Wheels." Sig Franz, as a cyclist, has few equals and no trick on the wheel is overlooked by this master of the bicycle. He pulls some phenomenally sensational stunts that are thrilling and seemingly impossible.

With a refreshing interchange of crisp dialogue and timely song numbers, "The Music Lesson," will present one of the important attractions of the show. Mr. Freed injects an original bit of comery in a specialty number which he calls "Musical Imitations." Rolls & Royce, who specialize in comedy and character songs, in which their character numbers distinguish their work from the ordinary vocalist, are also featured on the bill. An acrobatic number and medley of dances also gives them splendid opportunity to show their versatility.

UNPRECEDENTED CRIME WAVE STRIKES CITY

For October the Omaha crime wave reached its zenith, with 430 robberies, burglaries and thefts, when something like $150,000 in values was the net result of the work of the authors of the crimes. Only a small percentage of these crimes were punished.

Four additional detectives have been put on the job. The October losses, if the quota were kept up for a year, would mean that a million and a half dollars' worth of property would be stolen.

All of which gives the average citizen an insight into the efficiency of Mr. Ringer as superintendent of police. In the palmy days when the city was full of gambling houses, saloons and a big "redlight" district nothing like these extravagant figures was ever heard of.

VAN DEUSEN APPOINTMENT POPULAR WITH EVERYBODY

The selection of Charles Van Deusen to be chief of detectives appears to be pretty satisfactory to everybody who interests themselves in police matters. It is said that Commissioner Ringer is not enthusing over it very much. Acting Chief Anderson, who will again return to the ranks, is said to have been Ringer's choice, but he was afraid to go through with Anderson because of charges hanging over the head of that officer.

Van Deusen is an old man on the force and has been cited several times for conspicuous bravery. He, with Benny Danbaum, is credited with saving the life of Mayor Smith during the riot a year ago when a negro was lynched.

DAN BUTLER WANTS NEW GARBAGE SYSTEM

Dan Butler says the city needs a new system of garbage disposal. He also intimates he will put the matter up to the city commissioners in the near future.

Henry Pollack has the disposal contract at the present time. He has his hog plant down in the east end of the city. Some of his crowd are daily visitors in the vicinity of Eleventh and Grace streets, where one of the city's chief bootleggers does a thriving business.

ness. Commissioner Butler's street force also has a plant in that vicinity. All of which makes a bad condition, which Butler wishes to rid Omaha of as soon as possible.

Generally speaking, the garbage disposal system is considered very undesirable, to say the least.
