NEW JERSEY GIRL REFORM VICTIM

How She Was Left in New York While "Splendid Young Man"
Beat it for West and Never Returned—Sequel in Present Political Activity

Politics is funny and Omahans just now are being reminded of political promoters, political curs and other things political that happen from time to time.

One of Omaha's leading ministers, Rev. A. A. DeLarne, has undertaken, as president of the Omaha Ministerial Union, according to common report, to secure from that body a chastisement of Chief Justice A. M. Morrissey of Nebraska, by declaring against him as a candidate for re-election. All of which reminds us that we all, including even preachers, have our troubles. About two years ago an interesting story was printed about preachers and politics, and it is worth reprinting. Here it is:

Information is beginning to break about one of our big city preachers who has been getting his name into the columns of the public press recently. It appears that he, like his predecessor, has been getting into the wrong pasture in the past.

The big church has had troubles enough of its own in recent years and new episodes are coming to light at this time about its newest minister. The former minister was called upon the carpet by the deacons in solemn conference. He was forced, much against his will, to tell what jokes he had been committing upon some of the lady folk in the church. This system is used in this particular denomination and, after an erring preacher makes a clean breast of things, he usually is told to get a new parish. That is what happened with this parsonal divine. But what he told the deacons was really good. After they had insisted that he tell all, he complacently admitted that he had been very intimate with the wives of at least three of the deacons themselves. It caused an awful explosion, but in order to stop further scandal he was merely told to seek another church home, which he did. To the press it was stated that, although this minister's past history had not been satisfactory, his success in Omaha (as a preacher) had been extraordinary. He could not be retained, however, after the publicity that had been raging for some time, they said.

Now comes this man's successor with a record. It seems that he had an affair down in New Jersey with a pretty miss. It went so far that the girl's relatives insisted on him marrying the girl in order to give an unborn child a home. He promised to do so and the newspapers announced the coming nuptials. Meanwhile, the reverend gentleman took the young lady to New York City, where the services of a professional abortionist were secured.

Leaving the young woman in a hospital, with a nurse and medical care, he "splendid young man" beat it for other parts and never showed up for the nuptials proposed and advertised. He spent several years in different churches, preaching the gospel, and finally landed in one of the big Omaha churches to take the place of a disgraced divine.

It looked pretty soft for this fellow

BAITING COMPTON VERY POPULAR AS ONE PRE-ELECTION AMUSEMENT

Popular County Commissioner Comes in for Criticism of Those Who Are Opposing His Successful Good Road
Construction Program—He Lets Them Rant

Everything possible is being done to "pan" Dafe Compton, present county commissioner, by those who are opposed to him for re-election. Compton is the only country member on the board and served one year as chairman of the body. The Compton family own 1,600 acres of good land in Douglas county and are very popular in the country districts. During Compton's incumbency Douglas county has built several fine county roads, aided by the state, which pays part of the bill. One of these roads runs about a mile from the Compton farms which, to the notion of the Omaha Bee, is a crime inexplicable.

Compton has stated that he was for better country roads and he has been the hardest worker on the commission for good highways. He lives near Waterloo and his section of the county has been a recipient of some of the new roads. But his section has simply received its share and no more, and it comes with poor grace for those who are criticizing him on that score to say anything at all.

Compton has been one of the live wires on the county commission and those who are interested in good things for the country as well as for the city itself will do well to see that Compton is returned to office. This man Stroud, who is trying to beat Compton, is the man who has been the biggest beneficiary of the very work Compton has been doing in securing good country roads. Stroud builds farm trucks, among other things, and the good roads are what have helped Stroud to make a success of his business.

It is not surprising, although the Bee would make it so appear, that one of Douglas county's good roads should run in the vicinity of Compton's home near Waterloo. Even if he was not a county commissioner, that part of the county, and especially the portion where the Compton farms are located, is entitled to one of the good highways that are being constructed in Douglas county, vicious attacks against him to the contrary notwithstanding. Everybody who has ever driven over that section of the county in an automobile will be ready to vote for Compton for what he has done.

When the election is held next Tuesday voters will do well to remember that Compton has been doing in the line of road building since he has been at the head of the good roads committee. Roads already built, under construction or projected run into every corner of Douglas county and for most of this program Compton may be given credit. He has given his best efforts toward seeing that Douglas county got its share of the good roads and from all indications he has been successful.

Compton has not been much of a politician but he has been giving the county the benefit of his best efforts and is entitled to another term.

ROBERT DRUESDOW IN LEGISLATIVE CHASE

"Bob" Druesdow is going to again be in the running next Tuesday, and it means something, too. He is again a candidate for the legislature and expects to be elected. It will be his fourth term in the legislature if he gets away with it and most of those who have been good observers say he will be a leader, when it comes to getting votes.

Robert Druesdow has served three terms in the legislature. He has always headed important committees and secured some of the important legislation that at present interests Omahans.

MOREHEAD NAMED AS WET CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

John H. Morehead, democratic candidate for governor, has been named as the "wet candidate" by the Anti-Saloon league, whatever that is. It has been a bad pill for Elmer Thomas of Omaha, who is sponsor for the league as long as he continues to draw his salary from that body. Elmer is trying to get back into the democratic party, and he does not like to see Morehead's "wet record" shown up. But at that, Elmer says, "money comes before issues," and for that reason he intimates that he will not enter into a fight with the Anti-Saloon league until they stop his salary.

FORD LINES UP FOR FOSTER FOR BENCH

Jim Ford, well known Omahan, has come out for Judge Charles Foster and is making a thorough canvass of the city for Foster. Ford claims he is especially strong in railroad circles, where he is putting in his best efforts. Ford has had his own troubles in Omaha and when he returned from Leavenworth, Kas., again entered politics. Jim says he has no apology to make for his friends, but that he is for Foster. This should be an incentive to vote for Foster if there is none other.

GILINSKY TAKES LONG VACATION FROM HOME

Reports from Michigan indicate that Dave Gilinsky, well known in Omaha, is to have a vacation from his home city. Dave is on trial up in Michigan for killing an under-sheriff. Some of the fellows with him have already been sent to the "sti." and Dave does not hold out much hope for himself. The Daily News, as usual, has had its little say, to the effect that the "gang" in Omaha has raised a lot of money for Dave, but inside information is to the effect that he needs no aid.

VOTE FOR IBSON

John L. Ibson is one of Omaha's young and high-class attorneys. He is a candidate for one of the five places on the municipal bench. He is not only worthy the place he seeks, but is one of the best qualified men who seek election to that office. A vote for Ibson will not be a mistake. He is one of the men on the ticket who may always be depended upon for honesty in office and service to the people.

Doings In Omaha Fifty Years Ago

"Butch" Ames returned from a visit to Stuart, Neb., where he visited with Jerry Lafontaine, owner of a whole county out there. The report that Butch brought back a load of game was denied. Incidentally, he was still looking for a job.

Up at Mike Gibson's place they were swapping stories about MacSwiney receiving nourishment during his hunger strike. Some funny versions of it were heard.

John Hofeldt, premier road builder of Nebraska, was in the city putting out some campaign material for his friends. John intimated that Nels Udike's newspaper did not always tell the truth.

Lawrence Dwyer was reported on the sick list. Mrs. Dwyer said he was always kicking about something.

Andy Campbell was back after an extended vacation in the western part of the state.

Tom Dennison was forced to quit politics long enough to celebrate his birthday for ten minutes. A lot of the boys bought a bouquet.

J. Harry Moore was again a visitor in our village.

Joe McGrath was a busy guy. He was an agent for options of all kinds and usually got his share of the business. Billy Schall kept an eye on Joe all the time.

Elmer McCune was greeting old friends again, after an extensive trip to the northern country, where he inspected a number of large grain elevators.

Harry Munder always had an alibi. He also had a great appetite for spaghetti.

Louie Miller was again very active. He took a quarter from Boob Milder in a whist game which nearly broke up in a row.

Fitzgerald for District Judge

James M. Fitzgerald, present police judge, is a candidate for the district bench. Those who have followed Fitzgerald's record feel assured of his election to the position he seeks. His record as a police judge has been a remarkable one and his ability is recognized by all authorities on law matters. All of his decisions on the police bench have been along lines of good judgment, as well as legally proper.

Fitzgerald has kept aloof of partisan politics and has never had any enemies to punish or friends to reward. His success on the police bench has been greater than that of any judge who has ever occupied that important position. One of the remarkable things in connection with his candidacy for judge of the district court is the fact that he is now being supported by many well known and influential Omahans who have been victims of his decisions in the past.

Judge Fitzgerald is a lawyer of no little ability and is recognized by the legal profession as a man well fitted for the position he seeks. He is on a non-partisan ballot in this election, as are all the other men who seek election to the district bench. During recent years he has had before him men of all political affiliations and it is a remarkable truth that no one can boast of getting either the best or the worst of his decisions. In the coming election contest many will not be surprised if he is high man on the ticket.

Fitzgerald is a member of one of Omaha's best known law firms, but has not himself practiced for some time because of the position he has held on the bench.

POLITICIANS BUSY BIDDING FOR VOTES

Many of All Stripes Out With Hammers for Votes.

POLICE JUDGE ATTRACTIVE JOB

Congressman Also Has Attention of Many Interested in Who Shall Represent Omaha—Places on Board of Education
Are in Much Demand

With election coming next Tuesday, everything is about set for the big doings. With something like 999 candidates on the long ticket which Omahans will receive when they go to the polls, there will be plenty of material for the average voter to work upon.

During the week there has been a lot of things going on and a lot of politicians have been calling each other liars and about everything uncomplimentary, while backers of various candidates have been out singing praises of those in the race in whom they are interested.

In Omaha there is more real interest in local offices than in the large ones, although the Cox and Harding forces have been on the job all the time. Real interest centers in the races for police judge, municipal court, justice of the peace and the board of education, with quite a scramble for places on the legislative ticket. The election of two county commissioners will also be a factor in the voting next Tuesday.

For congress Jim O'Hara, left-handed Irishman and democratic candidate, is trying to beat Congressman Jeffers, who is a candidate for re-election and will have about as much chance as the snowball that landed in the hot place. O'Hara is said to still owe some of the publicity bills he subscribed to during the primary and is not considered very popular even with his own party. He is expected to be just a figurehead when it comes to counting the votes.

The real contest is on police judges; where Judge Foster, Henry W. Dunn, former chief of police, Joe Lovely and Frank Dineen are the four candidates for the place. Dunn is conceded to be in the lead for one of the places, but the contest between Dineen, Lovely and Foster for the other place on the police bench is a red hot one. Foster has not been a very popular police judge with any section of the people and some of his decisions have been considered very rank, even by the better lawyers of the city. There is a strong fight on against him in several sections of the city, and if he should be re-elected it will result from the refusal of Lovely and Dineen to either one get off the ticket in favor of the other.

For county commissioner, Dafe Compton is in the race for re-election and wisecracks say he will have easy sledding, despite the efforts of the Omaha Bee to defeat him in favor of T. F. Stroud. Stroud is known as the man who is opposed to all kinds of organized labor and has been a leader in many of the fights to hold down the laboring man. He is a large employer of labor himself, but those intimately acquainted with his system are not enthusiastic over him as a candidate for county commissioner.

Much is being heard about the board of education candidates. By those who have been giving the matter attention it is felt that it is time for several changes. This is an important body but the fact that members do not receive salaries has made it the butt of every sort of grafter that ever

"JACK" NEALS MILLION DOLLARS IN MUCH DEMAND BY MANY HEIRS

Arrival of Alleged Wife May Cause Contest That Will Require
Work of Courts to Untie Serious Legal Questions
Involved as to Legatees

The big scrap on for the million dollar estate of Jack Neal, formerly of Omaha, who died a few weeks ago is taking on some funny angles and from all indications will take on more before the business is finally settled.

Neal was a foster child of the former head of the Reynolds Tobacco company and inherited a large sum of the money left by the head of that big institution. He worked, not because he was forced to do so, but because he felt employment of some sort was necessary, even for a millionaire. Through an accident, he lost a leg many years ago and since that time had used one artificial limb.

In Omaha he was considered an eccentric, but usually had his share of what was going around. He was a staunch defender of the Reynolds company and when the talk was going around about a leper having been found in the factory where Camel cigarettes were manufactured, took occasion to help bury the report to the best of his ability.

Neal came here from the east, his original home being in North Carolina where he is alleged to have married the woman who is now claiming his fortune. Neal confided to many Omaha friends that he was once married, but few if any of them knew any of the details of the marriage. He was a frequent caller at The Mediator office and had been a subscriber for many years.

In many ways, Neal kept his personality quiet, but most of those who knew him best were well acquainted with the fact that he was very wealthy. He cared little for wealth except to always be well provided for and he made no unusual displays. Once an attempt was made to hijack him by a country fellow who claimed to have lost a diamond while Neal, a woman and himself were spending an afternoon in a room at a local hotel. So far as Neal was concerned, nothing ever came of the matter, but echoes of the affair have been heard since his death and the filing of the Neal will leaving large sums to a local attorney and his daughter.

Thus far the personal effects of Neal, it is said, have not been known to many people in Omaha, although it is expected more will be learned of them in the near future.

The woman who claims to have married Neal fifteen years ago will be in Omaha and when her story comes out it ought to be a good one. Incidentally, it is said that there will be some interesting developments in the Neal will case that will make rich reading. Mrs. John Neal is said to be a woman of more than ordinary attractiveness and to have an unusual personality. A North Carolina preacher is expected to be one of the persons who will vouch for the marriage.

MACSWINEY PROVES MARTYRDOM TO DOUBTERS

Whatever may be said of Terence MacSwiney, he died a martyr to the cause of Irish freedom. His death has given the lie to those who have persisted in their attacks on him, saying he would "come out of it" before the grim reaper arrived.

But MacSwiney did not "come out of it." He died a victim of the hunger strike he had been undergoing for ten weeks and his death will not be quickly forgotten. His hunger strike has not been approved by all the people of Ireland, nor by all the Americans of Irish descent, but those who have made light of his action must now understand that he was in dead earnest all the time.

The death of MacSwiney has given English leaders something to worry about and Lloyd George, powerful head of the English government at this time, is visibly perturbed over MacSwiney's demise. The Mediator has no disposition to discuss the merits of the hunger strike of the lord mayor of Cork, but as a general proposition thinking people, whatever may be their prejudices, will admit that the English government could have prevented MacSwiney starving to death and still not have foregone any of the political principles for which it has been standing in the Irish controversy.

It is said that the dead lord mayor had the sympathy of his bitterest political enemies, which makes the human side of the tragedy intensely interesting. MacSwiney's death will be felt in more ways than one even on this side of the water and will serve to renew some of the strife that heretofore has been permitted to die down to a certain extent.

The lord mayor's closest friends and even his relatives tried every argument conceivable to induce him to give up his hunger strike, but his final reply was: "If I quit now it would be giving up Irish liberty, and I refuse to do that." He had many active supporters, but it is a safe guess that few of them would have gone to the extremes to which MacSwiney went.

The death of MacSwiney will not be soon forgotten, and what he has done may set the ball rolling for further Irish activity. At any rate it will give some of his old friends much to think about. It is doubtful whether many of them will follow the example he has set but for a long time to come he will be talked of as one of the Irish heroes and his name will go down in history as that of a man known for action and not for talk.

Sympathizers in America of MacSwiney will doubtless become more active and go even further than in the past to secure for Ireland what the martyred lord mayor of Cork laid down his life for.

BUYING A PRESIDENCY

According to a report recently made by the senate investigating committee which has been getting a line on the amounts collected for party campaign expenses, the republicans have already collected three and a half million dollars and were looking for additional contributions which might raise the amount to four millions. No report had been made on the democratic collections but it is a safe guess the amount will be large enough.

These immense amounts are slush funds and the shame of it all is that this country can deal in the business of buying presidents. This big amount comes from all classes, but as a general proposition most of it comes from big institutions which expect to get their money back during the next administration by being given privileges that will net large sums to the institutions with which they are connected.

In Nebraska the law puts a limit on the amount that may be spent by candidates but very few of them attempt to abide by the law. Their bankrolls are usually thrown wide open when they are running for office, despite the law, and very few of them are caught at it. L. N. Bunce, candidate last spring for the nomination as justice of the peace, was on the pan for spending too much money. He is using that fact this fall as campaign material.

But it takes money and plenty of it, to make the wheels go around in these campaigns. If the republicans have gathered up a four million dollar national campaign fund, it simply shows they have some good managers. The democrats will be called upon to show their hand sooner or later. Bryan was the instigator of attempts to stop the raising of campaign funds, but he spent more money in his time and picked up more "easy change" than any man who has ever been in politics.

The spending of campaign money does somebody some good, so we say the more the merrier, without regard to which party spends the money.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN
DOROTHY WESTON CASE

It is said there have been some new developments in the case of Dorothy Weston, Omaha girl, who is suing a well known Omaha grain dealer for a million dollars. She was reported sick last week but those acquainted with her surroundings do not consider her case a serious one.

Miss Weston's mother has been taking a serious interest in the case and is reported to have refused to have anything to do with the matter. Jimmy Cosgrove, reported to be interested in the complaint, could not be seen this week. It is stated that Cosgrove's wife and Dorothy Weston were former pals.

Those who have given the matter attention have expressed surprise that an Omaha attorney would have a hand in this bad smelling mess. Mrs. Weston, mother of the girl, is said to be the mother of several other children including two married sons who are well known and popular with their employers and all who know them.

Richard L. Metcalfe

Richard L. Metcalfe has been made advertising head of the Brandeis stores, which is not only a very important position, but also is said to carry with it a liberal salary. Metcalfe is a thorough newspaper man and feels better in that sort of work than anything else. He may be expected to make a success in his new advertising line.

dealt in school supplies, all the way from a slate pencil to a twenty-room school building. Belle Ryan, former principal of the high school, at present on the staff of a private university, has really been the whole works behind the throne in Omaha school matters. She has lost her popularity with the school teachers with whom she formerly worked and they may be depended upon to use their influence to get rid of the men who have permitted Miss Ryan to run the school board.

Incidentally, educational finances in Omaha are in a miserable condition and thousands of children are huddled into hovels that would make ideal pig stys. Without attempting to pick out men who are suitable for members of a new board, it may be said without hesitation that it is time for a change. More will be told of this condition later, and some of the shortcomings of the present board will be shown up.

MOVIES SLATED FOR FIRE RESTRICTIONS

State Fire Marshal Hartford says the "movies" are violating some of the Nebraska laws and some of the city ordinances. Hartford must have been tipped off. There are not many cities in the country where fire restrictions receive less attention than in Omaha. Recently an extensive fire was prevented in the Strand theater only by the common sense and quick action of persons not interested particularly in fire protection.

The next legislature will have some recommendations along this line and some new laws may be expected, it is said. In Omaha protection against moving picture fires is at a very low ebb. Further information on this subject is soon to be available, it is stated. It will be worth somebody's while to investigate this business, declare those who have already looked the matter over.

REVIEWING WORK OF
AN OMAHA PREACHER

He was out of the state where he had committed a crime which should have sent him to the penitentiary and was successful in avoiding publicity. But murder will out, and the young woman finally located him here. She came to Omaha to secure reparation only to learn that any legal action must be taken in New Jersey. Heartbroken and distressed, the young woman returned to her eastern home. The preacher kept on preaching and is said to be the real thing with some of the ladies in his present church.

Recently this fellow, in the hope of striking a popular chord, undertook to push the anti-parochial school law. One of his sermons recently appeared in an Omaha newspaper. He is of the same stripe of reform that is so rampant in our present city police administration. While he kneels to pronounce his "holier than thou" imprecations, his posterity clogs the sewers of New York City, and he makes his parishioners like it. And, incidentally, he is daily telling Omaha mothers how to raise their children in a manner that will keep them away from the devil's grasp. Better it would be if he were pushing a cart on the streets of Jersey City to support the poor woman he seduced before he was chased from his eastern haunts.

Using Tobacco

Perhaps you've tried to stop using tobacco only to find that the habit has such a hold on you that you gave up trying.

You know, better than anyone else that you ought to stop because, sooner or later, it is bound to undermine your health. Heart trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, insomnia, poor eye sight—these and many other disorders, can often be traced directly to the use of tobacco. Besides it is an expensive, utterly useless habit.

Habit Banished
In 48 to 72 Hours

No matter how firm a grip tobacco has on you—no matter whether you've been smoking cigars, pipe or cigarettes or chewing plug or fine cut for a month or 60 years—Tobacco Reducer will positively remove all craving for tobacco in any form in from 48 to 72 hours. It does its work so quickly that all tobacco "hunger" is gone almost before you know it. Your desire for a smoke or a chew begins to decrease after the very first dose. Tobacco Reducer contains no habit-forming drugs of any kind—it is in no sense a tobacco substitute. It does not cause the slightest shock to the nervous system, on the contrary, it quiets the nerves and makes you feel better in every way.

SEND Coupon for Proof to our free booklet, the deadly effects of tobacco and how easy it is now to quit. We will also send you copies of letters from confirmed users telling how simple, home-treatment freed them absolutely from the habit. Just mail coupon—or a postal card.

EMPRESS ATTRACTIONS

The professional dance partner is making his first appearance in Omaha at the Empress Rustic Garden, located in the basement of the Empress Theater building. Ten instructors, both men and women, are present every evening at this new recreation palace to make sure that no patrons lack for partners. Some of these instructors come from New York and are teaching Omaha dancers the newest steps. No expense has been spared by Manager Ledoux to make the Rustic Garden pleasing to the most exacting patrons of beauty. Thousands of dollars have been spent adorning the walls with beautiful art panels and decorating the interior with brilliant foliage entwined in rustic trellises. The soda fountain has been built into a rustic brick backround on the extreme north end of the balcony and refreshments and light lunches are served at the balcony tables.

The entire main floor has been converted into a dancing platform, which is 64 feet wide and 130 feet long. No tables or chairs are permitted on the dancing platform. The new floor, of fine spruce maple, is the first of its kind in Omaha and replaces the old cement floor.

Slater's Southern Orchestra, which has prospered in vanderbilt and in carets all over the country, provide entertainment and music for the dancing.

Jack Connors, formerly manager of the dancing pavilion at Knie Park and of numerous dance floors throughout the country, is in charge of the Rustic Garden.

"MAIDS OF AMERICA" COMES TO GAYETY

At the popular Gayety theatre, starting Saturday matinee, the "Maids of America" company will present a new revue in two acts and six scenes, entitled "Varieties A La Mode," with Bobby Barry as the star. The engagement here opens with the matinee performance on Saturday and there will be matinee and night performances daily for the balance of the week.

"Varieties A La Mode" is the work of William K. Wells, the well known writer of burlesque entertainment. It is a clever compilation of satire on timely topics that is built entirely for the purposes of producing laughter. The initial scene of the first act of the piece is entitled "The First National Bank of Laughland," and there isn't the slightest indication that there is a stringency in the money market of giggles and guffaws. The other scenes of the act which follow are all replete with laughter compelling lines and situations.

Bobby Barry, who is again starring at the head of the "Maids of America" company, will be remembered for his clever comedies of previous seasons. These talents are a natural heritage with the diminutive comedian as he is the son of that famous Irish comedian of twenty years ago, Billy Barry, who with Muehly Pay was nationally known in those days for his inimitable comedy characterizations. In the company supporting Mr. Barry will be found George Leon, George E. Snyder, both of whom are burlesque favorites of several years' standing; Doris Bolton, who carries the prima donna honors, and Jane Mae, a capable singing and dancing soprano.

An extra attraction with the company is "The Balmar Four," a quartet of well known harmonists.

Starting Monday there will be a ladies' dime matinee at 2:15 daily all week. The Sunday matinee begins at 3. Extra midnite show election nite, starting at 11:30. Election returns will be read from the stage at both shows election night. Reserve your seats early.

IF YOU WANT to be on time, have your watch regulated and adjusted by Brodegaard Bros. Co. A trial will convince you. Strictly union shop.—Adv.

ORPHEUM OFFERINGS

Eddie Vogt comes to the Orpheum next week in "The Love Shop." Other principals will be Harry and Grace Ellsworth. Written by Fred De Gresac, this musical comedy is so gorgeously and richly staged that it has been described as a rhapsody in velvet, silk and lace. The sprightly lyrics are by Dan MacBoyle, and the pleasing and inspiring music is by Walter L. Rosemont. The array of carefully chosen models will appear in a display of sumptuous soiree costumes, also in boudoir and boulevard creations.

This is the stellar offering, but there are to be two featured acts. One, a "Comedy Mix-Up," will be the skit presented by Jack Cahill and Don Romine. Sidney Phillips, in songs and stories, will likewise be featured.

One of the most prolific producers of musical productions is George Choos, and "The Love Shop" comes recommended by critics as his best, and it is also the most elaborately staged of his entire output.

As for the work of Cahill and Romine, it is exceptionally laughable. They portray a comic negro and a comic Italian. Operatic and jazz singing are features of their skit.

Mr. Phillips, an ex-service man, commands unusual gifts as a storyteller. And he is equally effective in the singing of topical and humorous songs.

"Follow On," a one-act comedy by Edwin Burke, is to be cleverly presented by Harriet Marlotte, assisted by three other capable players. Clever lines and a clever situation make the offering especially pleasing to vaudeville audiences.

Jackie and Billy are cockatoos. One of them acts and talks like a human being. They are billed as thinking and talking birds.

"The Big Game" is the title of the performance to be contributed by Harvard, Holt and Kendrick. They play basketball while riding bicycles, and put up an exciting contest.

Calling herself "The Lady from Delft," Lucy Gillett demonstrates that she is an extremely clever juggler. Her setting is composed of old Dutch blue.
