

NEW POLICY STARTED TO SAVE RINGER'S NECK

Morals Squad Thing of Past, But Grief in Police Department Continues.

KILLING OF SCOTT GOES UNNOTICED

Public Be Damned Policy Will Still Govern Ringer-Thomas Combine—Colored Stool Pigeon Holds Down Criticism Against Police Heads—Much Attaches to Coming Event.

On a tie vote the city commissioners Tuesday declined to suspend Officers Armstrong and Brigham from the force pending the trial of their cases in the district court, where they are charged with manslaughter. By conservative non-partisan people who have watched police conditions in Omaha this is considered to be little less than high-handed, to say the least. At a meeting last Sunday of the local association for the advancement of colored people it was made plain that there little or no sympathy with the administration in refusing to take cognizance of the killing of Eugene Scott, Plaza hotel bell boy.

Incidentally, there were some peculiar angles to that meeting. While probably 90 per cent of those present or even more favored strong action in the Scott affair, the meeting was taken off its feet by a man, recently made a police officer under Ringer, who counseled against such action. He apparently had come primed to prevent drastic action by his colored brothers in the Scott case. Although he has been on the force less than a month he did not hesitate to uphold Ringer and his system. Being a new appointee, he apparently felt it his duty to double-cross even his own people, something which has always been demanded as a part of the understanding when new men are appointed to the force.

But the finishing touches were put to much of this unholy business that has attached to Ringer's system recently. He has been forced to do away with the so-called morals squad and for appearances he is now looking for a new system to carry out the nefarious business he has been responsible for since elected to office. Just what the meaning of this latest move amounts to is unknown. It is said, however, that it is the forerunner of changes in the city commission, the nature of which are not as yet clear to the general public.

With crime rampant, with the police force disorganized beyond description, with Elmer Thomas dictating the office of the superintendent of police, with the mayor stalling for an excuse to take sort sort of action that will reduce criticism, and a thousand and one other similar bugaboos staring them in the face, the commissioners who have been upholding the Ringer-Thomas combination are beginning to wonder how much longer this business can continue. It has been getting so serious that numerous conferences, in which the public has had no part, have recently been held, with a view to clarifying matters. It is said that Mr. Ringer has been informed by his associates that they have stood about all the monkey-business they can and that something desperate must be done.

Mayor Smith is quoted as saying his faith is still strong in Ringer's ability to take the kinks out of the present municipal tangle, but that recent events have caused him to almost become a doubter.

Another significant thing in connection with the action of the present commissioners is said that they have quit charging their sins up to the Third ward gang. It used to be that every time something out of the ordinary happened they would refer to the "gang." Now they are looking for a new alibi.

It will be interesting to note events in the police department in the near future. About half the present force is made up of inexperienced men. Whether or not Mr. Ringer will permit them to kill everybody in sight is not known. Much interest will attach to any new policy that may be adopted.

GRACELAND SWEET SHOP NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Graceland Sweet Shop, Sixty-third and Center streets, has been opened for business by a live wire Omaha woman. Soft drinks will be served from a fine new fountain that has just been installed and an excellent cafe is also in operation. Graceland will make a specialty of fancy dinners and the proprietor has issued an invitation to her many friends to make her place a call.

FIREMEN DEMAND NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS ANNUAL INCREASE IN PAY

Request Sent to Commissioner Zimman Suggests Action Before Next City's Budget Is Made Up—Policemen Not Concerning Themselves About More Money.

The city of Omaha has been asked by the firemen to increase their salaries approximately $90,000 per annum, which means an increase of $25 per month per man. The matter has been discussed between Commissioner Zimman and representatives of the firemen heretofore. It was deferred because Mr. Zimman told them it could not be undertaken until the new annual budget was arranged.

Now the firemen have made a direct request for the increase and they are anxious to have the matter adjusted at once. The firemen have had some pretty hard work financing their affairs during the last few years. Although their expenses of all kinds increased from 80 to 110 per cent their salaries did not go forward in leaps and bounds in the same fashion. They were given slight relief by the state legislature, but the city council itself did little to assist in them securing that slight increase.

Now comes the usual howl about lack of funds and all that kind of stuff. As a matter of fact, the city of Omaha and taxpayers might as well prepare to meet this increase. The men are entitled to more money and they will have the sympathy of about every fair-minded person. Firemen and policemen are admittedly the poorest paid employes in the country. It has been the habit of the municipality, in making up the budget, to lump off the amount to be paid firemen and policemen without considering seriously any emergency that might arise from an increase in salaries. The present request of the firemen comes at a time when the commissioners will have plenty of opportunity to consider it before making up the new budget.

A new bond issue of $500,000 is proposed for school purposes. Much of the deficit in this fund has resulted in the state going dry. The taxpayers are kicking their heads off about increased taxes. They might as well prepare for more increases. They have boosted rents and everything else beyond all reason and much of it must naturally be turned back to them in taxes for a fund to pay higher salaries for men who are on the public pay roll.

Firemen and policemen may be expected to demand what is their rights and taxpayers might as well prepare themselves to meet these demands. City firemen have no sinecure and they are entitled to a living wage. Their present request for an increase should not surprise anybody who has kept in touch with affairs in this city.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN By GENE BYRNES

Doings In Omaha Fifty Years Ago

Schneckenberger lost another ten-cent game of pinchle.

Ernest Coy threatened to spend a dollar but nobody took him seriously.

Jimmy Cosgrove was known as "the man without a country." He was seriously thinking of trying to locate No Man's Land.

Jimmy Silk bought a new base ball bat for use on intruders. It was generally conceded that he knew how to use it.

Frank Johnson was not a regular patron at the union restaurant in the Orpheum Gardens, as previously reported.

Dad Weaver could not speak definitely about coming conditions at the carnival, but expressed the opinion that it would be a dry affair.

Jim Banks, North Side millionaire, was still living in luxury. Jim said there was absolutely no use of working anyhow.

Billy Lawrence, of Anheuser-Busch fame, visited Otto Eichhorst. It is said that Bill carried his grip with him, but left some of the contents with Otto.

Fred Meisenbacher was still telling that story about being No. 26 at Falls City. Fred was very strong in that village.

Bert Perigue was doing a lot of things he could not get away with. Some people said he put water in his near beer.

Jim Murray dropped in from Dunbar to visit old friends in the north end of our fair city. Murray's chief distinction was that he was one of the fourteen millionaires of which his city boasted.

Frank Huntley, Ohio correspondent for The Mediator, gave notice of a coming visit to the Gate City. Manager Stork at Hartman's promptly notified the police.

Jimmy Lindsey and Deputy Christensen spent several uneventful days in the vicinity of Waterloo. Rain put a damper on their activities.

"Doc" Kemp missed a "Q" and Charlie Gorr fined him four bowls of soup. That was all Charlie was eating those days.

Charles Tyrrell, one of our village merchants, was again on the job after an extended vacation. The rye market showed a slump.

Bob Allen took a short vacation. A lot of weekly newspapers were out late as a result.

DALTON JOINS MUSGRAVE, PRIVATE DETECTIVE MAN

F. M. Dalton, until a few days ago a member of the Omaha police force, has resigned to join the Musgrave Detective Agency. Dalton is another of older police officers who refused to become a "stool" for the Ringer and Thomas crowd. Some differences arose in this matter between Dalton and the Thomas Combination with the result that Dalton declined to remain on the force any longer.

Commissioner Ringer was finally forced to do away with his "immoral" squad. Will somebody please page Elmer Thomas.

GREEK QUESTION AGAIN TO FORE

Omaha is in the throes of excitement over another Greek outrage, which again brings the Greek question to the fore. The city has had its experiences with these affairs before.

The shooting of Robert G. Ogden by a Greek at Fifteenth and Capitol avenue is the latest cause of trouble. It is not unlike several others that have occurred. In each instance these outrages have resulted from these foreigners offering insults to American girls. Many Greeks have established themselves in business and employed unsophisticated young girls in their places. Once they are employed these brazen fellows begin their filthy advances toward them, apparently thinking they can get away with murder if they think that is necessary.

This does not, by any means, refer to all Greeks in Omaha. Many of them have become Americanized and are willing to live according to American ideals. This better class, however, has lost control, if they ever had it, of the degenerate class of Greeks that has accumulated in the city. Very indiscreetly, our government took cognizance of a South Side riot a few years ago and paid some indemnity to a bunch of these degenerates who caused trouble there and were injured. This indemnity payment has encouraged them to go the limit.

The attitude of these young Greeks is particularly nauseating. They pose as "dandies" outside their places of business, making grimaces and insulting remarks when women pass and in other ways cause much trouble. It is time for the police to deal energetically with this class of no good bums and for the government to deport them if necessary to learn them that they are in America and not in Greece.

OMAHA CAFETERA MAN DEFENDS HIS SYSTEM

John Welsh Says Sugar Shortage Cause of Cutting Down Portions.

COMPLAINS AGAINST WAITER SYSTEM

Well Known Caterer Has Many Excuses for Manner in Which His Places Are Operated—Apologizes for Lack of Service—Overlooks Many Features of Complaints.

I feel that you have done me an injustice in your issue of September 12.

You make it appear that I am intentionally withholding sugar from customers in order to profiteer.

The facts are that I am unable to secure anything, but some of the dark brown sugar and not enough of that.

This condition you can easily verify by calling up any wholesale or retail sugar dealer in the city.

I have been able to secure some very small amounts at retail stores and, in order to give every customer a fair percentage of sugar and not cut anybody entirely out, I requested the managers to give but one teaspoonful with each order of foods.

Surely that is the just way to look at that situation. As to milk and water instead of cream, I feel that you are surely mistaken.

Every manager has positive orders to serve cream just as we receive it from the dairy on everything in which cream is served. They know that I discharged one manager whom we discovered mixing milk with cream.

I have always tried to give the highest quality of foods and maintain the highest standard of service.

Since the beginning of the war help has been hard to secure. Wages were no object and experienced table waiters are worse than useless in the dairy lunch business, as it is harder to get them out of a rut than to instruct new men, and the younger men learn more readily than the older ones and are usually more polite.

We must admit that the younger

American is not inclined to be too polite anyhow.

The most expensive help I have is the inexperienced help. They waste more, and produce less dollar for dollar than those who are the best paid.

I have taken many inexperienced boys and brought them up to where they can and are making from $25 to $50 per week.

As to prices charged that is, of course, governed by the market and as I buy in the largest quantities of any restaurant in Omaha and am enabled to get the lowest prices for the same quality, I know that no other restaurant can serve the same quality at any lower price.

My average net profit for the past four years has been less than one cent per customer. Surely nobody can do business on less and survive. Were it not that I have a contract on coffee that will run for a few weeks I would have been compelled to raise the price on that article some time ago.

The great system of Childs restaurants, with enormous buying powers, were compelled to raise the price to 10c some time ago.

In another column will be found some comment on cafeterias, generally. Mr. Welsh's letter is enlightening, in view of the fact that other places in Omaha catering to the feeding of the inner man are apparently not having any trouble furnishing their customers plenty of sugar and none of the popular-priced eating places are charging more than five cents for coffee.

FEELING CONTINUES TO RUN HIGH AGAINST APARTMENT HOUSE RENTS

Some Threats Made to Take Legal Action Against Alleged Combine of Owners and Rental Agencies—New Leases Made After Association's Plan.

There is apparently a pretty strong feeling among apartment house tenants to oppose demands made on them for immensely increased rents. Most of the institutions are sending out new leases for the tenants to sign. Heretofore these owners and managers have declared emphatically that they were not in a combination of any kind and that the increased rents was the natural result of an increased demand.

The new leases, however, put an entirely different appearance on the matter. At the top of the lease are these words: "Form of lease approved by House and Apartment Owners and Managers' association of Omaha." These leases in themselves indicate that there is an association or combine of some kind which has agreed on forms of lease, increased rentals and conditions under which apartments will be leased.

Just what will result from the agitation is uncertain, but the increased rentals continue to draw fire from the victims. During the week several lessors have taken legal action looking to a securing of lower rentals than those proposed by the landlords. In many instances these increases have actually caused much hardship, which has been emphasized by the absence of vacant property which lease holders might avail themselves of.

Another bad feature has been the absolute refusal of apartment house owners to permit a child under high school age in their apartments. It has come to be a pretty serious question in more ways than one. It is stated by some legal authorities that such action by rental agencies is entirely illegal, but that question has not been tested out in courts.

Some apartment house owners have been inclined to be reasonable in the matter of increases, but others have apparently gone to the very limit, and are demanding the last pound of flesh. The legal action now being brought by several persons will be watched with interest.

CAMPBELL DECLINES TO ADMIT HE IS GUILTY

Waterloo Man Says 'Twas Not His Fault It Rained for Four Days Selected for County Fair.

A lot of people have been charging that Al Campbell, Waterloo nimrod and promoter, was absolutely responsible for the four days of rain which put the Douglas county fair on the hummer. Campbell says the assertion is absolutely untrue.

Ordinarily the big September rain comes during Ak-Sar-Ben festivities. For that reason Campbell has insisted on the county fair being held before the Omaha fall carnival. Somebody must have got next to the business and ordered the rain a week ahead. At any rate it was here before the usually scheduled time and played smash with the county fair.

Down in Waterloo, where everybody had prepared for big doings, the rain was a real disaster. Aside from putting the fair grounds and buildings on the bum, it also made the roads impassable. The big contingent of Omahans who usually turn for the Waterloo show were unable to motor down there and railroad schedules were not of the sort that made the trip easy by rail.

But it takes more than a rain to discourage the Waterloo people and they are going to stick by the ship just the same.

COMPLAINT FROM CAFETERIAS

A letter from John W. Welch, owner of the Welch cafeterias, printed on the first page, is interesting in light of restaurant conditions in Omaha.

This letter, from an expert in feeding the public, proves just what we said last week about the need of more good, up-to-date, popular-priced restaurants. His complaints about shortage of help and sugar and such matters might have received attention a year ago, when our hordes of young and middle-aged men were fighting for their country. That condition exists no longer, however.

The cafeteria system is all wrong, if what Mr. Welch says is true. What ever may be his trouble furnishing sugar to his customers, with his "great buying power," as he calls it, the fact is significant that regular restaurants and other popular priced eating places in Omaha are not experiencing the same difficulty, if their service is any criterion. A representative of this paper looked the matter over during the week and found no lack of sugar in the few restaurants the city has, nor in other eating places.

The contention made last week was that the city needed several more good restaurants. Recently the waiters' union opened a restaurant on Harney street and it was a success from its inception. While some of its patrons may have gone there to eat out of sympathy with union labor, it is a safe bet that 90 per cent of them went there because of the food, service and prices that were offered. The meals served in this and other restaurants in the city, to say nothing of the down town soft drink cafes, are not only superior, but they are cheaper than can be purchased in most of the cafeterias and service is thrown in.

We still maintain that Omaha needs some more restaurants, especially in the down town district.

EDITORIAL BY A PREACHER

Bishop George Beecher, of the Episcopal church, head of the western Nebraska diocese of that denomination, and editor of the Western Nebraska Churchman, has an editorial in that little paper which will be interesting at this time. His own story is better than anything that can be written by the editor of The Mediator on the subject. It is as follows:

I engage two carpenters to build a garage at the bishop's house, and innocently donned a carpenter's apron and proceeded with hammer in hand to engage myself as helper in the erection of this building. I was surprised indeed to be told by the two carpenters, who had joined the union about two weeks previous, that they were afraid to have me take any part in helping to erect the building for fear that they would be fined by the union. I had engaged these two men by the hour to work upon my own property. I am not thoroughly acquainted with the rules of unionism, and I am not thoroughly convinced that these rules would refuse me the privilege of driving a few nails in some boards that I had bought at the lumber yard for the purpose of building a garage. Both men informed me that they had been coerced into joining the union and that they had not been thoroughly posted as to the situation. At all events, I took my physical exercise in doing something else. The labor situation in this country is a serious one. What will eventually result from the present chaotic conditions is very doubtful, to say the least. If personal liberty is to be curtailed to such an extent as to prohibit a man from working on his own property without the consent of an organization of labor, the basic principle upon which the ideals of American citizenship rest will soon be substituted by the law of the survival of the fittest. "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," will be a mere mockery in the face of coerced submission to the dictates of imperialistic labor. Such a law would destroy the spirit of sympathy rather than encourage it.

Without respect to the merits of Bishop Beecher's concern about or knowledge of the principles of unionism, we want to suggest that it is pretty bad business policy for any labor union to deny a minister of the gospel the right to assist in the work of constructing anything for the church. If we understand anything about the principles of union labor, the leaders of the union to which these two carpenters belong will make apology to Bishop Beecher for the action of these two members. It is safe to say that 99 per cent of the members of organized labor believe in the doctrines and principles of Christianity. If they do not the labor unions are a failure. That is not to say that 99 per cent are active communicants of churches, but it is to say that they believe in the Christian spirit, as taught by the Son of God.

We suggest to the Carpenters' union that an apology to Bishop Beecher is quite in order.

LARMON SHOW WINDOW BRINGS MANY VISITORS

Hundreds of visitors daily are flocking to see Lee Larmon's fine show window on the Douglas street side of the Fontenelle. By experts it has been pronounced the acme of the window dresser's art. The big window has been screened in from behind. The interior is decorated with greenery and flowers, together with some artificial furnishings in the way of a waterfall, small trees and a bathing fountain. Around the fountain are seated half a score of water nymphs, while artificial birds recline on branches of the trees.

To give the picturesque scene animation Mr. Larmon has placed fifty live canaries within the scene and they flutter around through the wilderness of their surroundings, drink at the fountain and bathe beneath the neatly designed waterfall. The entire sitting forms a mountain scene almost as realistic as nature itself could provide.

OBSERVATIONS

Unless indications fail, the old ship is leaking. You can call it "politics" if you want to, but nothing will excuse the gangsters that have been trying to make a village out of Omaha.

When the campaign against President Wilson is closed he will still remain the biggest thing in presidents since George Washington.

The rent man is going to get away, in spite of the agitation against him. Not because he is right, but because he is might. "It is not because I hate ye's that I bate ye's, but because of the authority that I have over ye's."

Senator Borah came to Omaha with a holly wreath on his brow and a dagger in his fist. The republican party better take a tumble to itself.

Some common sense is what is needed in affairs generally just now. The fellow who gets out in front on that basis is going to make a hit in the affairs of the country.

The Daily News wants Dean Ringer to stand pat. Ringer is scared to death. Really, something must be done. Who is running this village, anyhow? Nobody.

English politics, according to a cablegram to The Mediator, are again nearing a crisis. The Irish question is still to the fore. An entirely new government may get into office in the near future it is said.

Senator Borah did not cut any fat hogs in the mouth while he was in the city, so far as outward indications show. That delegation of Utah boosters was composed of three politicians.

Judge Fitzgerald has refused to take cognizance of beer making in Omaha. This jurist believes a little good, common sense mixed in with judicial action is a good thing. He will have a lot of supporters on that score.

That lone teal duck that has been flying around Cutoff lake is still at large, although the hunting season has been open two days.

That half million dollars bonds for new schools is another indication of what a good thing prohibition has been for Omaha. It is to be hoped the prohibitionists will be given the privilege of paying them off.

A big hullabaloo has been raised about prices that have been charged by nurses. Why roar about nurses when everybody else is profiteering.

Omaha wrestling fans are preparing for another winter of mat sports. The usual number of fakers will be on the job.

NORDIN GOLDEN WEDDING IS GREAT CELEBRATION

Pioneer Omaha Couple Enjoy Fiftieth Anniversary With All of Family Present.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nordin celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary last Wednesday at the "Fredensborg," the fine big home of Fred Brodegaard, Fifty-second and Emmet streets. Mrs. Brodegaard is a daughter of the Nordins.

The celebration was a big one, lasting from early morning until late at night. "It was wet outside," as Fred Brodegaard put it, "but it was wet enough inside, too, for anybody. The only disgraceful feature of the affair was the presence of near-beer."

The celebration opened with a holy communion at the Danish Lutheran church at Twenty-second and Leavenworth streets. Ernest Nordin, well known orchestra leader, and son of the happy couple, led the music himself. Fifteen of Omaha's best musicians were there to furnish the best that Ernest Nordin could offer.

At the Brodegaard home there was a happy celebration all day, including a big dinner and luncheon. All six of the children, three boys and three girls, were there with their children, together with several hundred other relatives and friends. Mrs. John Kyhl, one of the daughters, and her husband came from Portland, Ore.

BROWN BLOCK MUTINY CAUSES BIG UPROAR

"Mutiny, mutiny," cried a newsie at Sixteenth and Douglas streets last Saturday morning.

This kiddie, who just got back to school the preceding Monday had a lesson in patriotism. Among other things that lesson told him that when Old Glory was flying from a mast, inverted, it meant mutiny.

The newsie was slanting around in the "keen morning air" when he spied the flag on the big battle ship at Sixteenth and Douglas streets, known as the Brown block. It was flying upside down. Then came the cry of "mutiny." It brought a score of newspaper reporters and a flock of policemen to the scene. Phil Foran, who is chief engineer, elevator conductor and other such jobs was approached on the subject.

"What's the matter here," demanded a reporter. "Is there a mutiny in the building?"

Foran was nonplussed at the remark but, always in a happy mood, he remarked that something had been going on around the boat, but he was not sure what it was. He himself had resigned, he said, and he knew of two other building employees who had quit and added that two more were leaving the following week.

The cause of all the grief was that the janitor had swung Old Glory to the breeze inverted. A sailor laddie who had just returned from six years "before the mast" was the first person to notice it. Others took up the joke and then followed the uproar among newspaper reporters.

Mrs. Nelson, superintendent of the building, did not learn of the incident until the flag had been flying two hours, but quickly put Uncle Sam's emblem in proper position when she learned of the affair.

HUNTERS BATTLE FOR LIFE

One day last week while Eugene Freeman and Robert Swan were out on the bottoms east of town gunning for tomato cans, mud-daubers and other game birds on which the season is open, they were furiously attacked by a monstrous yellowhammer and an unusually vicious blue jay. The boys were unprotected except for their automatic shot guns and their faithful bird dog, but they put up the best defense of which they were capable. The battle was raging terrifically when the game warden came to their rescue and aided the hunters to escape.

Friday they went to Blair where Judge H. G. Cross, with appropriate ceremonies decorated them with the Order of the Cinque-bones in recognition of their valor.—Herman Record.

JEWISH RELIEF PROGRAM MOVES FAST TOWARD GOAL

The movement to raise $175,000 in Omaha for Jewish relief, which is this city's portion of the $400,000 Nebraska expects to raise, has been a success from the start. This is to be a short but spirited campaign and thus far it has worked out even better than the promoters had hoped for. Contributions have come in steadily since the campaign opened headquarters on the court house lawn. Isaac Konecky, one of the big pushers, says Omaha Jews will not only meet the allotment demanded, but will well oversubscribe the $75,000 first attempted.

This campaign is the biggest thing the Jewish people of the country have ever attempted and the success thus far in raising the money for Jewish relief has been a complete success.

CLARY'S CHICKEN WILL FEATURE AT FT. CALHOUN

Carl Clary has opened a cafe at Ft. Calhoun for hungry persons who feel it is worth their while to visit that suburb. Clary is an artist in the business and is preparing to give the hungry public its money's worth. He has just gone into business, following a successful career of twenty years as steward in the Union Pacific dining car service.

Out in Calhoun Clary has opened a cafe where he is prepared to serve at $1.50 a chicken dinner to the good people of Omaha who feel it worth their while to journey out there over the good roads in their automobiles and otherwise. "Just call me up and give me your order, I'll do the rest," says Clary.

The new restaurant is prepared to serve everything in the "Clary way" and Carl will see that nothing is lacking in service, and he knows just how to do it, too.

TWO PREMIER MAT MEN WILL MEET OCTOBER 2

Pesek and Londres, two premier mat men, are matched to wrestle at the Omaha Auditorium October 2. The match will be for blood, two best out of three, with no restrictions on time.

These two men are considered to be about the most evenly matched of any pair in the business today. Their weights are nearly equal, their experience has been sufficient and their training of the sort that will make them both hard as steel.

This match will be held under the auspices of Jack Lewis, best known wrestling promoter west of New York. His reputation for fairness and the right sort of concern for the public is well known. He says if he finds out about anything crooked being pulled off he will call off the match and give back the money.

GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCES SALE OF SURPLUS FOODS

The government will continue the sale of government surplus food, clothing and other miscellaneous supplies, from two army district stores, on and after September 25, sale to continue until allotment in each district has been sold.

Persons residing in North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska will be supplied from Omaha. Sales will be made over the counter and individual orders may be sent through the mail and delivery made by parcel post, the government paying all parcel post charges. Present indications are that sales to municipalities will be discontinued.

All reclaimed articles will be sold over the counter at army district sales stores. Parcel post orders on such articles will not be accepted.

Catalogs or price list of surplus army material to be sold in retail stores will be furnished newspapers as soon as received from the printer.

Volcanoes in Britain.

The two great centers of earthquake activity in the British Isles are Corrie, in Perthshire, and Mersea island, in the mouth of the Blackwater, on the Essex coast. In both these localities earthquakes are frequent, and earthquakes are usually a sign of volcanic activity. Highly unpleasant as it would be, geologists would be no more surprised at the resurrection of one of the British volcanoes than they have been at the rebirth of Mount Etna.

Famine.

Paraguay has valuable resources, the most important of which is quebracho, which is particularly rich in annin.

A Double Re-Union

By CECILLE LANGDON

(Copyright, 1918, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"But it was only a harmless little tiff," said Kitty Willis. "I was petulant, he was impatient, and we parted as if we were utter strangers," and the final tones quavered and broke.

"No 'tiff,' as you call it, is harmless, my dear," replied the soothing voice of Mrs. Mayhew, the housekeeper, to whom Kitty always carried her little troubles. "Once I had a husband and a home. Both are gone now. And all through my unjust suspicion and willful ways. My husband was a man of easy ways, and often his persistent silence when I scolded and his refusal to quarrel with me led my wayward tongue to utter bitter truths. He had been a musician, and whenever a company of strolling players came to town he delighted in hobnobbing with them. One night with some old actor friends he was gone half the night. I reproached him cruelly, and in the morning when he announced to me that somehow he had lost his pocketbook containing his monthly salary I accused him of squandering it in gambling and drove him from the house. He did not come back that day nor the next, but after that from another town I received a letter. It intimated the salary which a friend had found. He wrote a very brief note. He said that evidently we could not get on together and that maybe all he was good for was to blow a cornet, and I've never seen him since, and to the end of my life I shall regret the bad temper that has lost me a husband I really loved.

"Perhaps Norman is really quite angry with me and will not come to help me entertain the little ones at the children's party this evening," mourned Kitty contritely.

"Oh, yes he will," soothed Mrs. Mayhew, fondly caressing the sobbing penitent.

Norman Blair at that very hour brought his automobile to a halt beside a lonely country road, his usually pleasant face wearing a dissatisfied expression. Of Kitty he was thinking and of their petty tiff. He longed to see her and make up, but pride and stubbornness led him to draw back. If he could only find some plausible excuse for visiting the Willis home! It was presented, strangely, amazingly, at that moment! The echo of a prodigious groan drew his glance to a little thicket. There stood an astonishing figure—that of a man with big staring eyes and bulging cheeks and punch, rotund grotesque, and wearing the costume of the conventional circus clown. Such a presentment in that quiet spot completely mystified Norman. He had to smile. As if all ready made up for the sawdust ring, the stranger's face was powdered and tinted; he wore the fool's cap, his face was newly painted. Suddenly he noticed Norman and came toward him.

"Don't stare so, don't laugh!" he uttered complainingly, "but tell me what to do."

"Why, what is the matter?" inquired Norman, lost in wonderment. "Ruined! homeless! doomed to face a cold, cheerless world in this outlandish garb! I'm the clown of a Humpty Dumpty company. We had to steal away from Watertown with our properties, all but busted. We halted in the woods here to rehearse our entertainment at Mayville. I strolled off to take a snooze. When I woke up my comrades and the property wagon were gone. The landlord of the hotel at Watertown had pursued us and had seized our wagon and wardrobes, and my poor friends were visible half a mile up on yonder hill, in hock and without money and prospects. That had to come eventually."

A quick light came to the eyes of Norman Blair. "I say, my friend," he spoke rapidly, "if I agree to provide you with a good sum of money to replace your wardrobe will you sell me your professional services for two hours late this afternoon?"

"You're a life-saver!" almost shouted the other.

"Then get into my auto. A friend of mine is to give a children's lawn party. When it's over you shall have a liberal compensation."

And driving later to the Willis home with his odd companion, the grand excuse Norman had for showing up there was readily approved by Kitty, and the tiff of the preceding even forgiven and forgotten with a loving kiss.

What a rollicking, roystering time the little ones had! What a rare, jolly, funny, engaging clown held them spell-bound with his comic antics! Then at last as he produced a trick mouse and feigned desperate fear, he pressed the air vent of his false front and collapsed into a flat, ordinary human being amid the delirious shouts of his appreciative audience.

Norman escorted his new friend into the house where he could wash the paint and powder from his face, pursuant to taking him to town to be rehabilitated in every-day attire. As the clown came outside again there was a shriek.

"Abner! my husband!" shrieked Mrs. Mayhew, and flew to his side and threw her arms about his neck, and fainted there, while her husband, gazing tenderly into her colorless face, leaned over and kissed her, while Kitty, in happy tears, blessed her loyal lover for having brought about this double reunion.

Using Tobacco

Perhaps you've tried to stop using tobacco only to find that the habit has such a hold on you that you gave up trying.

You know, better than anyone else that you ought to stop because, sooner or later, it is bound to undermine your health. Heart trouble, indigestion, dizziness, nervousness, insomnia, poor eyesight, and many other disorders, can often be traced directly to the use of tobacco. Besides it is an expensive, utterly useless habit.

Habit Banished

In 48 to 72 Hours

No matter how firm a grip tobacco has on you—no matter whether you've been smoking cigars, pipe or cigarettes or chewing plug or fine cut for a month or 50 years—Tobacco Reducer will positively remove all craving for tobacco in any form in from 48 to 72 hours. It does its work so quickly that all tobacco "hunger" is gone almost before you know it. Your desire for a smoke or a chew begins to decrease after the very first dose.

Tobacco Reducer contains no habit-forming drugs of any kind—it is in no sense a tobacco substitute. It does not cause the slightest shock to the nervous system, on the contrary, it quiets the nerves and makes you feel better in every way.

SEND Coupon for Proof. Get our free booklet. Tells you all about the deadly effects of tobacco and how easy it is now to quit. We will also send you copies of letters from restrained users telling how this trouble-free, home-treatment freed them absolutely from the habit. Just mail coupon—no postal will do.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

FRANZ-MARIE TEXAS
Prima Donna With the Brand New Show, "Victory Belles," Gayety, Twice Daily All Next Week.

EMPRESS THEATRE

If one is fond of harmony singing of the kind that appeals, "On the Mississippi," which heads the bill opening at the Empress the first four days, will be a revelation, for melodies sung by the octette of entertainers participating, will be sung and whistled for many weeks to come. George and Lilly Garden, premier xylophonists, will offer a musical program ranging from high class opera to the latest popular song hits. Morgan Davis and Lulu McCoy are an irrepressible pair of fun makers, whose offering under the title of "A Bit of Boobology," consists of singing and talking with comedy running riot throughout. A sensation novelty, Vim, Beauty and Health, completes the vaudeville program for the first half. The photoplay attraction for the first half of the week will be "The Profiteers," featuring Fannie Ward.

AT THE BRANDEIS

Frederic and Fanny Hatton's famous fun and fashion success, "Lombardi Letti," will begin an engagement of three days at the Brandeis theater next Monday evening. Aside from the fact that it possesses a wealth of finest comedy it is above everything else a distinct novelty and quite unlike anything that has been offered here in recent years.

Few characterizations within memory can compare in humor, in depth of inconsistency with Leo Carrillo's drawing of the temperamental Italian dressmaker, "Tito Lombardi," the chief figure of the story. In this Mr. Carrillo has created a character that measures favorably with the finest drawings the stage has given us. It is really of greater worth than the majority of fine stage studies for the reason that it requires the use of an unerring dialect throughout the performance.

Another excellent performance of the piece is that of Marie Colebrook, featured in the role of the wide-eyed little mannequin, whose "movie" teachings led her to believe that in order to succeed and hold her position in an establishment of the Fifth avenue sort she must be a baby vampire. The whole comedy, in fact, is so rich in character studies of more than the usual worth that it is difficult to describe them, but most notable is the "Hodgins" of Hallam Bosworth; the "Molly McNeal" of Lillian Brennard; and the theatrical manager of Harold Russell.

"Lombardi, Ltd." will be at the Brandeis Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with a Wednesday matinee.

Fiske O'Hara Coming

Fiske O'Hara, in the new romantic comedy that has been provided for him this season by Anna Nichols, "Down Limerick Way," will be seen at the Brandeis for Ak-Sar-Ben week beginning Sunday, September 28, and remaining over the next Sunday, October 5. This is an event of joyful import to the many friends of this Irish actor-singer has won here through the charm of his fine voice and most pleasing personality.

The new play chosen by Augustus Pitou for Mr. O'Hara has all the qualities that have made his yearly presentation in a new comedy such a happy success.

"THE VICTORY BELLES" AT THE GAYETY

Cleverly contrived to meet the demands of the tired business man and allied seekers after entertainment, the "Victory Belles" company will offer the Rain Bow Division of Burlesque, entitled "Frolics A La Mode," in two acts ten scenes and a prologue, at the Gayety theater for a week's engagement, beginning with the matinee Saturday afternoon.

In furnishing the book and lyric for this show William K. Wells has done himself credit. It has sparkle, dash and color and is chuck full of novelties. One of the big novelties is showing the construction of a burlesque show in full view of the audience. Gayety and situations give it an immediate place in the affections of those who like clean burlesque and fun cleverly purveyed.

To the laugh-provoking plot are added several sprightly dance and vocal numbers. To Hal Dyson is due the credit for furnishing the tuneful music of the "Victory Belles" and the dancing numbers and ensembles were produced by Raymond B. Perez.

Aside from the list of principals the personnel of the company is exclusively feminine and possesses in ample measure excellence of vocal and personal charm. Moreover, this preponderance of girlhood is brilliantly, even luxuriously arrayed in the latest imaginings of the ultra-fashionable modiste. There is much that is dainty and considerable that is striking. The ensemble leave vivid impressions of swirling colors and display garments made in alluring colors.

Beautiful Franz-Marie Texas appears in gowns of dazzling splendor and not infrequently of rainbow brilliancy. However, clothes, girls and dances by no means make a whole of "Victory Belles." As suggested the farce is clever and funny and is handled by a company of clever people.

James E. Cooper offers his big burlesque with Eddie Dale and Micky Markwood. It is pronounced by press and public as one of the best burlesque shows on the boards today. Matinee daily all week. Sunday's matinee starts at 3.

ORPHEUM OFFERINGS

For the stellar attraction next week at the Orpheum a sparkling musical comedy, "The Reckless Eve," is to be presented, and a featured act of the bill is to be "Georgie" Price in "A Little of Nothing."

Elaborately produced by William B. Friedlander, "The Reckless Eve" is a tabloid in two scenes, presented with a large company. The principals are Esther Jarrett, Cecil Summer and Jack West. Over twenty people are in the cast and most of them are attractive girls.

The musical comedy has more than a semblance of a plot. Although the stage story is well defined, the chief elements of the entertainment are comedy situations, clever song numbers and tasteful costuming effects.

Will M. Hough, who is responsible for many one-act musical comedies, is the author of "The Reckless Eve."

"Georgie" Price will be remembered as Gus Edwards' favorite juvenile actor. It is the cleverness of the youngster as a mimic that has won him wide popularity. His impersonation of Al Jolson is strikingly authentic. As a singer and dancer he is extremely effective.

Edwin George used to call himself "almost a juggler" and it is his absurd fumbling as a juggler that supplies the title for his act, "The Comedy of Errors." His work is effective burlesque. In his line of travesty he is the most comic figure in vaudeville.

Hal Davis and Dixie Nelson will be seen in the one-act play, "The Unexpected." The sketch was written by Edmund Day, author of "The Round-up." Brilliant dialogue is the particular merit of the offering.

Ed Alexander is to offer "A Study in Oil Paints." He is a colorist who works with extreme facility, but the result of his telling brush work stands close inspection.

Of perfect physical proportions Mlle. Nadje is an exponent of physical culture. It is her contention that any woman who takes proper exercises may obtain a graceful figure and acquire health. These exercises she explains in her stage work.

Topics of the Day will continue as a film feature and Kimograms will display screen news of the world.
